THE PRINCE AT TORONTO.

SETTLEMENT OF THE ORANGE DIFFICULTY.

The Mayor's Apology and the Duke's Answer.

THE CEREMONIES TO PROCEED TO-DAY.

Visit of the Royal Party to Collingwood and Intermediate Places.

"Uncle William" Caught Under an Orange Arch.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

TORONTO, Monday, Sept. 10—10:30 P. M.

The difficulty between the Duke of Newcastle and the city officials having been satisfactorily adjusted, the Mayor of the City has issued a proclamation informing the citizens of that fact, and embodying the following letter from the Duke, which was sent in answer to the Mayor's apology, in which he took upon himself the onus of not having told the Duke that the portrait of King WILLIAM was still upon the arch—his reason being that the Romanists did not insist upon its removal:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, TORONTO,
Saturday, Sept. 8, 1860.

I am so sincerely anxious that all the painful events of the last few days should be at once and forever buried in oblivion, and nothing remembered but the heart-stirring scene which last night proclaimed to the world the unanimous and enthusiastic loyalty of the City of Toronto, that it is a relief to my mind that I can, without any sacrifice of duty to the Prince of Wales, accept the apology which is offered by your letter, just received. I can only hope that from this moment all differences may as completely vanish from the minds of others as they will from that of,

Sir,
Your very obedient servant,
(Signed,) NEWCASTLE.

And also the following:

SIR: The Prince of Wales will be happy to receive the members of the Council on Tuesday, at 10 o'clock, as you propose, instead of to-morrow. I was not aware when I wrote to you that the Prince would start so early. (Signed,) NEWCASTLE.

The news has passed from mouth to mouth with great zest, and the town has been stupidly happy. All the Orangemen have also succumbed, and the subordinates have been snubbed by their leaders. At a meeting of the Masters of the various Orange Lodges in the District of Toronto, held yesterday, the following resolution was passed, moved by N. C. GOWAN, and seconded by THOMAS MCLEAN:

Resolved, By the masters of the various Orange Lodges in the District of Toronto, that while events have recently occurred tending to excite the Orangemen of this District, we cannot but regret that a few persons who are not in connection with the Order, forgetful of the sanctity of the Holy Sabbath, did, without the consent or knowledge either of the master or of the Committee which has charge of the Orange arch, place thereon certain banners surreptiously obtained from one or more of the Orange halls of this city, and which banners were taken down at the direction of the Chairman of the Arch Committee, and not as represented in some of the city papers by order of the Mayor or police; and while regretting that an institution based on devoted attachment to the Sovereign and fidelity to the Constitution as by law established should be slighted by any authority of the empire, we cannot but at the same time express our hearty congratulations at the arrival of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales among us.

A true copy. (Signed,)
JOHN CARR, District Master.

The effigies which were to have been burned last night were seized by the Police, who were followed to the station by thousands of infuriated people.

At Port Hope the Governor-General was burned in effigy.

The Grand Trunk Railway Directors have informed the Government that they can run no longer unless they receive additional aid from the country. The Government have answered that they have already helped them twice, and that while they would be happy to aid them, they dare not do it, on account of the opposition.

The Prince spent to-day in a trip to Collingwood and intermediate places. There were only twenty of us upon the train besides the Prince and his immediate suite. Nothing of special interest transpired until they reached Aurora, at which place there were three arches, one of which was an Orange arch, and was literally covered with the colors and insignia of the Order. The Duke did not notice it until the Prince called out "You're caught at last, Duke—you have got to go under, uncle WILLIAM, at last," which occasioned great merriment amongst the party. By the arch stood the Master and members of the Lodge, the former holding the banner in his hand.

At Holland Landing there was another Orange arch, on which there were two paintings—one of the Queen and one of King WILLIAM—and the inscription, "Loyal Orange Lodge, 1693." The train did not stop, however, but proceeded to Collingwood.

The greatest enthusiasm prevailed at all points, and the Prince met at least thirty thousand people during the course of the day.

The deputation from Belleville feel dreadfully that they cannot induce the Prince to return. They make the most abject propositions, but though the Duke has granted them an audience with the Prince for to-morrow morning, it is not likely they will accomplish anything.

To-morrow will be the busiest day the Prince has had since his arrival in the country. Every hour rom 8.30 in the morning till 10 at night is set apart for something, and at 10 he goes to the ball, which will end not before 4 or 5 in the morning.

The news of the death of Mr. INGRAM, the proprietor of the London Illustrated News, by the accident on Lake Michigan, has created a great sensation here, where he was well known. His artist and correspondent left for Chicago this afternoon, and will send his body home. Mr. INGRAM left our party at Montreal, saying he wanted to go where it was more quiet.

The Illumination of this evening is very fine, and the display of fireworks good. HOWARD.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

BELLEVILLE, C. W., Monday, Sept. 10.

A deputation, consisting of 500 delegates, goes up to Toronto in a special train to-morrow, to present an address to the Prince. It is hoped that the Prince will still visit Belleville, and there is but little doubt that everything would now be made agreeable.

TORONTO, C. W., Monday, Sept. 10.

The Prince went to Collingwood to-day by the Northern Railroad. Crowds were gathered at every station, and the Prince went out in an open platform car to let the people see him. Arches had been erected at several places along the line, and numerous addresses were presented. At Collingwood the party went for a cruise on the Red River in the steamer Rescue, and the Duke of Newcastle showed great interest in that route to the Pacific.

A deputation from Pittsburgh had an interview with the Prince to-day, to ask him to pass through that city on his way to Washington. The Orange difficulties are finally settled. The Duke is so delighted with the reception here that he overlooks the acts of a few misguided people.

A fine procession of firemen paraded to-night with torches and Roman candles. Fire-works are also displayed on the Lake shore. To-morrow a regatta comes off, and the inauguration of parks, &c.

THE FEELING AT KINGSTON.

The British Whig published at Kingston, in its issue of the 7th, tells how the people felt at having the Prince pass by their city. They were determined not to be cheated out of all the fun which they had anticipated, so they had their regatta, and in the evening the Grand Ball came off. At the Supper which accompanied the Ball two toasts only were drunk—"The Queen," proposed by the Mayor, and "The Prince," by the Hon. JOHN A. MACDONALD. Some one mentioned the Governor-General, but it would have been dangerous to propose him, so the officials wisely abstained. After the ladies had risen, the Mayor and the Hon. JOHN A. MACDONALD were severally toasted, and both gentlemen happily responded. It was past three o'clock in the morning, when the last galop was danced, and the whole company went home.

The Catholics were put in excellent humor by the publication of the following letter, which the Mayor received from the Duke of Newcastle:

OFF KINGSTON, 5th Sept., 1860.

SIR: It is with the utmost regret that I now find myself compelled to take the extreme course contemplated as possible in my letter to Sir E. HEAD, of the 30th August, which was immediately communicated to you by His Excellency, and to advise the Prince of Wales to proceed on his way without landing in the city of Kingston.

When we arrived yesterday, we found an arch covered with Orange decorations, and an organized body of many hundreds wearing all the insignia of their order, with numerous flags, a band, and every accompaniment which characterised such processions. I could hardly bring myself to believe that after seeing you and the other gentlemen who accompanied you on board the steamboat, and fully explaining to you the motives which actuate my advice to the Prince, the objections I took to these party displays on such an occasion, and the necessary consequences which must ensue, if the Orangemen would be so misguided in their own conduct, and act so offensively to the whole of their fellow-citizens, Protestant and Roman Catholics, as to persevere in their intention of preventing the Prince from accepting the hospitality of your city. I have been disappointed; the Prince has consented to wait twenty-two hours to give the Orangemen time to reconsider their resolve; they have adhered to it, and it is my duty therefore to advise the Prince to pursue his journey. What is the sacrifice I asked the Orangemen to make—merely to abstain from displaying in the presence of a young Prince of 19 years of age, the heir to a sceptre which rules over millions of every form of Christianity, symbols of religious and political organization, which are notoriously offensive to the members of another creed; and which, in one portion of the empire have repeatedly produced not only discord and heart-burning, but riot and bloodshed. I never doubted the loyalty of the individuals composing the Orange body. I based my appeal to them on the ground of that loyalty, and of their good feeling. I did not ask them to sacrifice a principle, but to furl a flag and abstain from an article of dress. I wished the Prince to see them, but not to give countenance to a society which has been disapproved of in the mother country, by the Sovereign and Legislature of Great Britain.

I am told that they represent this act of mine as a slight to the Protestant religion. Until they can prove that the great mass of Englishmen are also not Protestant, it is quite unnecessary for me to repudiate so unfounded and absurd a charge. I am well aware that such party processions are not illegal in this country, as they are in Ireland. This is a conclusive answer if I asked you as Mayor to exercise your authority, but, it is no answer to my remonstrance. I made it not as Secretary for the Colonies, called upon to enforce a law, but as a Minister of the Queen, attending the Prince of Wales, by command of Her Majesty, in an official visit to this colony, at the invitation of its Legislature, and I ask in what position would the Prince be placed by my sanction, if he were now to pass through such a scene as was prepared for him, (which happens not to be forbidden by the Colonial Legislature,) and next year visit the North of Ireland, where he could not be a party to such an exhibition, without violating the laws of his country. His Royal Highness will continue the route which has been prepared for him, but in any place where similar demonstrations are adhered to, a similar course to that pursued at Kingston will be taken.

I cannot conclude this letter without an expression of regret that the corporation did not accept the offer which I made them through you, to present their address on board the steamer—an offer readily accepted by the Moderator and Synod of the Presbyterian Church, in connection with the Church of Scotland. It is impossible to believe that the members of the corporation were influenced by sympathy with the conduct of the Orangemen, but I fear such a construction is too likely to be put upon their decision.

I am, Sir, your very obedient servant,
NEWCASTLE.
The Worshipful the Mayor of Kingston.

LATER FROM THE PACIFIC.

Arrival of the Overland Pony Express—Advices from California—Political Excitements.

ST. JOSEPH, Monday, Sept. 10.

The Pony Express, from San Francisco on the 29th ult., arrived here last night.

The Express, with St. Louis dates to the 14th of August, arrived at San Francisco on the 27th, and the incoming Express, with dates to the 17th, is telegraphed from Carson Valley on the morning of the 29th.

There have recently been several strikes of laborers in San Francisco for the ten-hour system, which have been partially sustained.

At the Douglas Democratic primary election in San Francisco it was demonstrated that nearly all the Irish of the city will give their support to that ticket.

Political mass meetings throughout the State are almost entirely engrossing the public mind.

Primary elections and conventions are taking place daily in all the counties, to choose delegates to represent the four political parties whose State Conventions will meet at Sacramento between the 2d and 11th of September.

Senator GWIN is to make his first political speech, this year, at Stockton to-morrow evening. As the canvass opens great bitterness is manifested against the Senator, who is a candidate for reelection next winter. Some of the Democratic County Conventions have required pledges from their legislative delegates to use all honorable exertions to defeat him when the State Legislature assembles.

The Republican State Central Committee has decided to call four State mass meetings or barbecues, in the four most prominent interior localities.

The several State and County Agricultural Fairs are about to meet, and all the reports represent the progress of the country in an agricultural sense as most extraordinary.

At the Stockton fair, 1,000 tons of copper from Colinas County, are on exhibition, which creates the impression that the mines whence the specimens came from must be valuable.

The contestants in the Broderick Will case have applied for a commission to be sent to New-York to take the testimony of JOSEPH C. MCKIBBIN, JOHN W. FORNEY, J. B. HASKIN, Major CARPENTER and some others, by whom they expect to prove that on the day the will purports to have been signed, BRODERICK could not have executed it, and that the will was not among BRODERICK's papers at Washington, when they were examined after his death. The application was strenuously opposed, and the Court has the matter under advisement.

Thirty-three State Prison convicts made a desperate attempt to escape on the 28th, by rushing upon the guard. The prisoners were fired upon, and three or four of them mortally wounded before they could be secured.

On the 7th of August the ship Lawson, of Bath, Maine, sailed from Port Townsend, Washington Territory, for New-York, direct, with a cargo of yellow fir spars, varying in length from 60 to 118 feet. This is the first cargo of ship timber shipped from Puget Sound for any Atlantic port. Another vessel is loading with the same kind of timber for London.

The value of the merchandise, not including the treasure, exported from San Francisco during August, exceeds $1,000,000, nearly all of which being products of California.

The ship Wild Ranger cleared this afternoon for Australia, conveying 170 sacks of wheat, 1,000 sack of oats, and over 4,000 quarter-sacks of flour.

SHIPPING AND COMMERCIAL NEWS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Wednesday, Aug. 29.

Arrived, Aug. 25, ships Elvira, from New-York; Locke, from Newcastle.

Sailed, Aug. 25, ship Georges, for New-York; 26th, B. F. Shaw, for Australia; 26th, bark Cristina for do.

The general tendency of the market this week has been unfavorable, owing to the indisposition of buyers to operate. There have been but few leading transactions, and quotable changes cannot be recorded. No article can be sold as well as a week ago, if we except Coal, which exhibits greater firmness at auction, 500 boxes of Candles were bid in, to-day. At a decline of fully 1c. ℔ lb., from the highest point reached. The country trade has slacked up, and the jobbers are doing nothing. Without a rival in this respect a general reaction seems unavoidable. WHEAT comes in largely; buyers for export to Australia have withdrawn, and the majority of tonnage for other quarters limits operations. A decline of 5c. ℔ 100 lbs. can be noted; good shipping lots are now quotable at $1 45. The ship St. Helena, which has commenced loading for England, will carry 25,000 sacks of Wheat. The bark Cristina has sailed for Australia with over 10,000 bushels Wheat, and the ship Lord Raglan has commenced loading for the same destination.

THE WALKER EXPEDITION.

Surrender of Truxillo to a British Man-of-War.

RETREAT OF WALKER DOWN THE COAST.

The Great Fillibuster Severely Wounded in the Face, and Harassed by the Hondurians.

NEW-ORLEANS, Monday, Sept. 10.

The steamer Osceola had arrived at Havana from Truxillo, and reported the following:

The Commander of the English man-of-war Icarus ordered Gen. WALKER to surrender the town. WALKER obeyed and retired lower down the coast with 80 men. According to last advices his force was reduced to 25 men, by the continued attacks of his enemies. WALKER had been severely wounded in the face.

Seven of his wounded followers have been placed aboard the Icarus at Truxillo.

WALKER lost one of his Colonels.

When the Osceola was leaving ALVAREZ was entering the town with 300 men.

NEW-ORLEANS, Monday, Sept. 10.

The brig Kate has arrived here with Truxillo dates of the 31st ultimo, and Ruatan dates of the 2d inst. She brings as passengers four of the men belonging to Gen. WALKER's expedition.

Gen. WALKER evacuated Truxillo on the night of the 1st inst., and was pursued by the enemy.

The last accounts stated that only one of WALKER's men had been killed.

No opinion could be formed as to the fate of his force.

The Investment of Truxillo by the Hondurans—Intervention of the British.

We find in the New-Orleans Picayune of the 5th inst. details of the intelligence previously received by telegraph, relative to the position of WALKER at Truxillo, the intervention of a British naval force, and a heavy cannonading heard at Ruatan Island, which rendered it probable that a severe engagement had taken place. Following is the Picayune's account:

The schooner Isaac Toucey, Capt. HANSEN, arrived at this port yesterday, direct from Ruatan Island the 24th ult. On the 23d, arrived at Fort McDonald the bark Active, one of the little coasters plying between the mainland and the Island, direct from Truxillo the same morning, with intelligence that a well-armed force of Hondurans, partisans of GUARDIOLA, numbering some 900 men, was before that city since the 6th, in possession of WALKER, preparing to attack it.

The Active also reported that on the 19th an English man-of-war, name not given, made her appearance before Truxillo, and demanded the surrender of the port into the hands of the ejected authorities, who alone, it was declared, had the right to dispose of the customs revenues, which were being collected by WALKER. The British Commander had also given public notice that all vessels entering or leaving the port of Truxillo must pay beforehand, or give security for the payment hereafter, of all port charges, to what was claimed to be the rightful Government of Honduras, viz., that of GUARDIOLA. He had also given notice that he was instructed to protect the people of Honduras, at any and every hazard, in all their rights of property and citizenship.

On the 24th, the day the Toucey sailed from Ruatan, the news was brought in that heavy cannonading had been heard at sea all that morning, from 4 o'clock until noon, a space of nine hours, in the direction of Truxillo. The cannonading is described as sharp and quick, and the supposition is that the town was being attacked on both sides simultaneously, on the land side by the native Honduran forces, and on the sea side by the British man-of-war—against both of whom WALKER had to defend himself at the same time.

This is all supposition, it is true, yet has a basis of probability in the facts already known. The news brought up by the last arrival was to the effect that the opposing Hondurans had been assembling in great numbers before the town and preparing to attack it, while WALKER was remounting the guns, and redoubling every energy to put his position in the best state of defence.

We may add here, also, that intelligent gentlemen, direct hither by the last two arrivals, and personally acquainted with WALKER's position, the town and fortifications of Truxillo, and the state of feeling among the Hondurans, put every credit in the truth of the general statement. It was known that the town was to be attacked, and that WALKER was preparing to defend it against every hazard.

The man-of-war referred to is doubtless the Icarus, which has been cruising in those waters, apparently watching WALKER's movements, the last six months. Under whose or what instruction her commander acts, we have no means of positively knowing. Were it not for the length of time she has been on the coast, with apparently a special object in view, we might think she acted under the instructions or advice of Mr. PRICE, Superintendent of the Belize and Lieut.-Gov. ad interim of the Bay Islands.

The length of time, however, the Icarus has been in these waters, with the known fact that a large party of WALKER's men had their rendezvous on the Island of Ruatan, make it probable that she had instructions directly from home. And this supposition is strengthened by the fact that the British Consul at Comayagua, and other officials in the State, and with Belize, have openly espoused the cause of the Government of Honduras, at the head of which is GUARDIOLA, as against the opposing party, and from time to time, as we learn from the official gazette, given information of his movements.

As to the actual condition of Truxillo before this attack was made upon it, we learn that it was almost entirely deserted of its old inhabitants. Those who sided actively with GUARDIOLA had gone into the neighboring country, where they doubtless contributed their quota to the native forces, reported to be before the town. Those who sided with WALKER were, of course, with him; while the neutrals, who only cared for their lives, had fled to the neighboring islands of Utilla and Ruatan.

The town of Truxillo, however, was at last accounts open to all comers, with perfect liberty of ingress and egress during all the hours of the day; and we are assured that officers of the opposing Honduran army had been known to take advantage of this freedom of the city to spy out WALKER's forces, movements and means of defence.

We are also assured that perfect order reigned in the city, and all legitimate business was protected, and, excepting the suspicions from the general flight, went on as before. Two negroes, who were taken in the act of breaking open stores and robbing, had been shot in the public square.

As to the chances of WALKER's successful defence, in case, as believed, he has thus been attacked from both land and sea, we have only the same means of judging as the reader himself. As before stated, he has possession of one of the best fortified places of Central America, where he found eighteen pieces of cannon, 18 and 24 pounders, some 150 small arms, and a large quantity of stores and ammunition. He is said also to have the sympathy and active support of a large party of the native people; but how far these advantages will have enabled him to make good his defence against the Government he has overthrown and the British combined, remains to be seen.

Later from Havana.

He was born at Bath, in this State, graduated at Amherst College in 1852, was appointed Principal of the Union School at Jonesville, Mich., immediately afterward, and remained there two years, when his health failed him. Two years since he assumed the duties of the Professorship which he held at the time of his death.

GENERAL TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Alleged Abandonment of the Idea of European Intervention in Mexico—Cause of the Increase of Our Squadron in the Gulf—Movements of the Army, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Sept. 10.

It seems that England and France have abandoned the idea of intervention in Mexico. Such are their declarations now to our Government. All they contemplated, they say, was friendly advice to Mexico, in which the United States were requested to unite.

It is well understood here that the increase in our Home Squadron is not for the protection of American citizens in Mexico, there being but very few there, but of American honor in the Gulf. Mr. MCLANE's instructions, I have reason to believe, authorize him, if necessary, to have recourse to offensive operations to repel any Spanish assault on Mexico. We have already more guns in the Gulf than we have citizens in Mexico. The squadron will be still further strengthened. Cuba is evidently the prize for which we strike.

The report that the amicable settlement of the claims against Peru was in progress is not credited by our Government. Mr. CLAY's instructions were positive, and a settlement can be made only by Peru acknowledging that she is in the wrong, the question of dollars and cents being left to arbitration. This acknowledgment Peru persistently refuses; hence our Government discredits the report of an amicable settlement. The naval force ordered to Peru has had no other effect than to subject us to ridicule, as the Peruvians well knew there was no power to fire a single gun.

Mr. DE HELL, Second Secretary of the French Legation, is appointed First Secretary at Parana, and will be succeeded in Washington by Count DE LAROCHEFOUCAULT, at present attaché at Rome.

Letters from Vicount TREILLIARD report the safe arrival of himself and family at Paris.

Proposals for building the telegraph to California, under the act of Congress, were received up to 1 o'clock to-day. Major SIBLEY bid in the name of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and this is believed to be the only substantial bid made. Secretary COBB will open the bids at noon to-morrow, and if no question arises requiring time for consideration, the contract will be at once awarded.

The War Department received a large mail this morning from New-Mexico. Eight companies of the Fifth Infantry, under command of Lieut.-Col. CHAPMAN, proceed to Bear Spring and commence the construction of Fort Fauntleroy. Col. C. is to detach as many companies as may be necessary, with orders to move without delay to Fort Defiance to relieve four companies of the Third Infantry now there, and protect the public stores until they are removed and the post abandoned.

Company I, Fifth Infantry, takes post at Fort Stanton. At Albuquerque Col. C. will be joined by H Company, Fifth Infantry, leaving in their place G Company, same regiment. On the arrival of Col. C. at Albuquerque, Maj. SIBLEY, Third Infantry, will proceed with K, I and A Companies of his regiment to Fort Clark, and report to the Commander of the Department of Texas.

On the arrival of Col. CHAPMAN at Fort Defiance, Maj. SHEPHERD will proceed with four Companies of the Third Infantry to Fort Clark.

Assistant-Surgeon GETTY, of the Medical Staff, will accompany Major SHEPHERD to Texas, and report by letter to the Surgeon-General, and await further orders.

Company I, Eighth Infantry, will remain at Fort Bliss until further orders from head-quarters.

Col. SMITH has established a weekly mail between his head-quarters at Camp Floyd and Salt Lake City.

Lieut. HORACE RANDALL has six days' leave of absence.

One company of the Seventh Infantry has taken post at Albuquerque; two temporarily at Los Lunas, and three at Fort Craig, Lieut.-Col. MORRISON commanding. Two companies under Major LYNDE will take post near the Miembres. Assistant-Surgeon COVEY accompanies this command. The head-quarters, with two companies, will be near the mines of Arizona. Assistant-Surgeon RYLAND is assigned to duty with this column. Assistant-Surgeon NORRIS is stationed at Fort Craig.

Lieut. WM. SINCLAIR, Third Artillery, now at Fort Monroe, will report at Fort Columbus for duty with recruits to be sent to California.

Assistant-Surgeon, E. I. BAILY, of the Mediterranean Corps, is relieved from duty with the expedition against the Comanches and Kioways, and will resume his station at Fort Brown. His place in the expedition is to be filled by Assistant-Surgeon I. C. BAILY, who will report to Col. PORTER for duty.

The Second Dragoons, Lieut. KEARNEY, and the Tenth Infantry, now at Fort Union, proceed to Fort Garland.

Lieut. BAKER, United States Rifles, will proceed to join his company, now in the field against the Comanches and Kioways.

Lieut. CRESSA, United States Rifles, will proceed to join his company at Fort Stanton.

Assistant Surgeon CLEMENTS is assigned to duty at Fort Fauntleroy. Q.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Sept. 10.

Official advices from New-Mexico, dated August 8th, state that eight companies of the Fifth Regiment of infantry have been ordered to Bear Spring to commence the construction of Fort Fauntleroy. Other portions of the regiments from Utah are being distributed throughout that Territory in accordance with previous orders. Two companies are to be stationed in the vicinity of the mines of Arizona.

It was yesterday stated that the expenses of the Japanese Embassy in the United States, according to accounts rendered at the State Department, were only half the amount appropriated by Congress, but since it has been ascertained the War and Navy Departments have claims for presents, including implements of war and for personal expenses from Japan to this country, which will probably absorb nearly the remainder of the $50,000 appropriation.

A special agent has been dispatched to California from the Attorney-General's office, to obtain information and convey instructions relative to the gold-mine suits and other legal business of that State.

Six separate bids, not yet opened, have been offered for the use by Government of the telegraph line to the Pacific. Several gentlemen, representing telegraph interests, are here on business connected with that subject.

The National Agricultural Exhibition.

CINCINNATI, Monday, Sept. 10.

The grounds fitted up for the eighth exhibition of the United States Agricultural Society are ready, and numerous entries are coming in from different States as well as Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky. There is every prospect of an exhibition superior to any yet witnessed in this country. The premiums exceed $20,000, with several citizens purses. The Fair opens on the 12th and continues to the 20th.

The National Fair at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Monday, Sept. 10.

The entries for the National Fair, which commences here Sept. 24, already number nearly 1,400. Everything indicates that it will be a splendid success and more attractive than any former exhibition. The Prince of Wales will probably be here on Tuesday, 25th of September. It is estimated that 200,000 strangers will visit St. Louis during the week.

THE LOSS OF THE LADY ELGIN.

Further Particulars—Milwaukee Shrouded in Mourning.

CHICAGO, Monday, Sept. 10—Noon.

Mrs. JANE COOK, Miss ELIZABETH ANN COOK, of Fond du Lac, Mrs. FRANKLIN HOPKINS, and a son of Deputy U. S. Marshal BURNS, of Milwaukee, are among the lost by the Lady Elgin. THOMAS KENNEDY, reported lost, is saved. All accounts represent the City of Milwaukee as shrouded in mourning, and business seems to be entirely suspended.

The Republican demonstration set down for the reception of Senator SEWARD to-day, has been postponed

GARDINER S. HUBBARD, owner of the Lady Elgin, has libeled the schooner Augusta for $4,200, and the vessel has been taken in charge of by the United States Marshal. This will bring out a full investigation of the affair.

The body of HERBERT INGRAHAM, member of the British Parliament, has been recovered, and taken in charge by his friends. Up to this morning twenty-seven bodies have been recovered.

Another Lake Disaster.

DETROIT, Monday, Sept. 10.

The Canadian schooner W. H. Davey, with a cargo of coal, sprung a leak in a heavy gale, on Saturday, and sunk near the middle island, Lake Erie. The crew, consisting of seven persons, escaped to the rigging, where they remained seventeen hours, and were finally rescued by a passing vessel. No lives were lost. The vessel will probably be raised.

Steamer Sunk in the Mississippi.

CAIRO, Ill., Monday, Sept. 10.

The steamer Arago, bound for Vicksburgh, sunk near Goose Island Saturday morning. Her valuable cargo was considerably damaged. The boat will probably be got off. No lives were lost.

The Maine Election.

LARGE GAINS OF THE REPUBLICANS.

PORTLAND, Monday, Sept. 10.

The election for State officers and members of Congress in Maine took place to-day. The vote is probably the largest ever cast in the State. Scattering returns, including several of the larger cities and towns, show Republican gains, and indicate the election of the full Republican ticket by large majorities. Twenty towns, heard from early in the evening, give WASHBURNE, (Rep.,) for Governor, 2,576 majority.

The following is the result in several principal towns for Governor:

Portland—Washburne, (Rep.,) 2,751; Smart, (Dem.,) 2,295; Barnes, (Union,) 113.
Bath—Washburne, 839; Smart, 127.

Augusta.—Washburne, 853; Smart, 682; Barnes, 8.
Bangor.—610 Republican majority.

Forty-one towns give Washburne 16,396; Smart, 11,732, and Barnes 436. The same towns last year gave Morril (Rep.) 12,594, and Smith (Dem.) 9,656. The Republican majority in these towns this year is 4,208; last year, 2,938—Republican net gain, 1,270.

Arrival of the Pike's Peak Express.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., Saturday, Sept. 8.

Denver City news to Sept. 1 is received.

Reports from Tarryall Silver Mines continue favorable. The richness of the ore has not yet been fully ascertained. Some specimens yielded more lead than silver. Several quartz mills in the Gregory District have been sold below cost; most of those in Nevada Gulch have been stopped several days on account of the scarcity of water. The Davis Mill, in Russell's Gulch, running four days, has yielded $1,580. Several mills are being moved from Boulder District to Gregory's, where their owners anticipate finding better quartz. Miners in the Gulch are generally doing well. A few are making upwards of $25 per day.

MIDDAUGH, who captured the murderer, GORDON, arrived Wednesday to subpœna witnesses for his trial at Leavenworth. Letters were found on GORDON, showing that H. A. WILLIAMS, President of Denver Town Company, and Dr. KENNEDY aided GORDON in his escape. WILLIAMS and KENNEDY have fled. The witnesses will go down next week.

An affray occurred yesterday morning between JOHN CAGGER and WASHINGTON BULL. Several shots were fired, one grazing CAGGER's hip and entering the foot of a bystander. BULL gave himself up to the authorities.

On Wednesday, 29th, H. J. RICE and H. PIERSON were killed by the Kiowas at Rice Ranch, on Box Elder Creek, twenty miles southeast of Denver. Their bodies were thrown into the cabin and burned, nothing but bones being found. They were identified by buttons and other pieces of metal about them.

LEFT HAND, of the Arapahoes, is in Denver, and says we may expect further trouble.

Mr. CREIGHTON, telegraph agent, leaves this week for the States. He has been unable to raise a sufficient amount to bring the Overland telegraph through to Denver. It will probably go viâ South Platte crossing and Fort Laramie.

The leading lawyers of Denver have agreed to transact no more professional business under the present disarranged state of affairs. The movement is started in order to secure a Government of some kind for the Pike's Peak region.

Yesterday there was a severe thunder shower in Denver. Lightning struck in many places around the city, but caused no damage.

Arrival of the Sante Fe Mail.

INDEPENDENCE, MO., Monday, Sept. 10.

The Santa Fé mail, with dates to the 27th ult., arrived last night to connect with the mail going east this morning.

Gov. RENCHER is out in a lengthy article in the Santa Fé Gazette, defining his position in refusing to call for volunteers. He says there are sufficient troops of the regular army for all practical purposes, and that under the law the Government has no power to call into service the militia, as Congress had made no provision for paying them for any service rendered. He also is very severe on Mr. OTERO, the delegate from New-Mexico, complaining that it is the second time he has gone out of his legitimate duties to assail him.

Col. FAUNTLEROY has received orders from the Secretary of War to make an immediate and vigorous campaign against the Navajoe Indians. With the force he has now, the Colonel will be able to put a speedy termination to existing troubles, if he only obeys his instructions.

On the 15th of August the Navajoes stole from the Government herd at Alvarde, three hundred head of beef cattle. Thirty troops went in pursuit, and recovered fifty head, but did no injury to the thieves.

Senator BAUD, from the counties of Santa Anna and Benville, has resigned his office as Senator for the purpose of taking an active part in the campaign against the Navajoes.

No Indians were seen on the route.

A report reached Santa Fé Fork that the Cheyennes, Kiowas and Sioux had joined together and would make war upon the troops whenever found, and the command at Pawnee Fork were apprehensive of an attack from them.

Commissioner GREENWOOD passed Pawnee Fork on the 1st instant; getting along well.

Our Fair closed last Saturday, and all agree that it was the fullest display of stock ever held here before.

A New Telegraph Line Completed.

OMAHA CITY, N. T., Saturday, Sept. 8.

The telegraph line to this point was completed and an office opened here yesterday. We will also be in communication with Fort Kearney by the first of November.

Chief Engineer Philadelphia Fire Department.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Sept. 10.

DAVID M. LYLE, of Fairmount Engine, was elected Chief Engineer of the Fire Department of this city this evening.

Suicide of a Boston Cotton Broker.

BOSTON, Monday, Sept. 10.

JOSEPH E. THAYER, a well-known Cotton Broker, hung himself in his store, No. 24 India Wharf, this afternoon.

LETTERS FROM PLEASANT PLACES.

WEST POINT AND NEWPORT.

Comparative merits of Eden and West Point—West Point mistaken by an Englishman for Bunker Hill—Capt. Roe in a frame—An early Visit from a Shepherdess—Shoulder-straps as Indicators of Military Rank—Capt. Cram and Historical Reminiscences—A Dinner with the Cadets.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WEST POINT, Saturday, Sept. 1, 1860.

The precise locality of the Garden of Eden has long been enveloped in doubt and conjecture; with me, however, it is henceforth a settled point. There can be no question that West Point, under the Adamic administration, was called Eden, and that Adam in his happy days was a young lieutenant—that he wore his fig-leaf as an epaulette, instead of according to the more popular but erroneous idea, and had nothing to do beyond making himself agreeable to Eve and the other ladies of the Garden. For not keeping his buttons bright, or, perhaps, for neglecting to salute his superior officer, he was probably tried by court-martial and ordered to the frontier or to New-Jersey.

On landing at West Point you will see: "Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775," carved in the solid rock. But do not be betrayed into the mistake of the Englishman, of whom my friend Capt. ROE tells a good story. The Englishman's eye, it seems, caught the inscription, and he rushed to the Captain in post-haste: "Is this Bunker 'll, Sir?" "No," explained the Captain courteously, "Bunker Hill is in Massachusetts, Sir; this is West Point." "Aw," grunted the satisfied son of Albion, but w'y do you 'oist a Bunker 'll sign, Sir?"

Having introduced Capt. ROE to you somewhat informally, allow me now to bring him forward with a little more ceremony. Capt. ROE is an old North River steamboat captain; his antecedents are capital. Give him your hand, gentlemen; he is a good fellow, as well as a thorough gentleman, and tells a good story. He is proprietor of a house at West Point, called—after him, I suppose—Roe's Hotel. SHAKESPEARE has said that "a Roe's by any other name would smell as sweet," but in this instance I doubt the truth of that assertion. The Captain will give you the best that he can; but he is no respecter of persons, and when his house is full all have to share alike. It is only a short time since that he had a judge, a professor of astronomy, and a clergyman sleeping side by side. It is due to justice to say that they lay peaceably together and did not quarrel.

Having no better place to put the correspondent of the TIMES, he gave him a cot-bed in the front parlor, warned him against breaking one of the big pier-glasses by looking into it, and wished him good night. Your correspondent, before retiring, noticed that a shepherdess' hat, with gloves and a parasol, lay upon the centre-table, but trusting that they would not be wanted at a very early hour in the morning, gave but a passing thought to the consequences and went to sleep. In the morning he had just risen in bed, and was rubbing his eyes to brush away cobwebby dreams, when the shepherdess came bolting into the room. But she didn't stay long; a hurried "Oh, dear," a gentle uplifting of hands, and the shepherdess was gone. What she meant by the exclamation has never been satisfactorily explained; but she could not have referred to your correspondent as "dear," for he felt, and must have looked rather cheap. The worst of the matter was that the shepherdess, in her hurried exit, left the door wide open—it looked upon the public hall;—and to shut it necessitated a bound and a spring on the part of your correspondent en dishabille. All I have to say to the shepherdess is this: Entering a gentleman's room by accident of a morning, is not an unpardonable crime; but to go out and leave the door wide open is an offence of great magnitude, and I hope that some day an elephant will tread on her hat, by way of retribution. There, Captain ROE, when I complained of the shepherdess to you, after breakfast, you said it served me right. I have published this story with the deliberate intention of ruining your business; for who do you think will stop at a hotel where they are liable to be disturbed by shepherdesses early of a morning.

If you know any of the cadets at West Point, you are fortunate; if you know a gentleman entitled to wear a strap on his shoulder, you are doubly so,—especially if that gentleman owns a house. The color of the shoulder-strap indicates nothing but the corps, thus: The engineers, topogs. and ordnance, have black; the artillery, red—it was here that CAMPBELL borrowed his phrase, "the red artillery"—the infantry, blue; the cavalry, yellow; the dragoons, orange; and the mounted rifles, green. But the device on the strap marks the rank of the wearer. When you see the shoulder-strap plain, untraversed by a bar, you need not pay the wearer much attention—he is only a second lieutenant; one bar at each end indicates a first lieutenant, and two a captain; but when you see the shoulder-piece embroidered with a gold leaf, take off your hat—you are in the presence of a major; if it is a silver leaf, you behold a lieut.-colonel; if an eagle, make a bow, for you have a colonel at full length; if it is a star, flatter yourself that you are associating with a brigadier-general; if two stars, you are face to face with a major-general, and if three stars appear on a field of azure, behold you have captured a live, full-grown general.

My friend, Dr. CAMPBELL, has two bars on his shoulder-strap, and owns a house and a big dog—my friend, Dr. CAMPBELL, got out his horse and buggy, whistled his dog to follow, and drove me down to Cozzens', where we found Capt. CRAM, of the Coast Survey. Capt. CRAM graduated at West Point, spent a good many years there subsequently, and is familiar with every inch of ground and every historical reminiscence connected with this classical locality. Standing on a point of rock above Buttermilk Falls, he pointed out to us the famous Beverly Robinson mansion, which stands now just where and as it stood when ARNOLD plotted that vile treason which Heaven and three good loyal hearts defeated. It was there in that old mansion that ARNOLD sat at breakfast when word was brought him that "Mr. ANDERSON" had been captured; leaving his muffin half-eaten and his coffee untouched, he caught up his portmanteau, reached the river-side by a direct path which is even now discernible—in the cove behind that jutting point of rock a barge lay in waiting, and by its aid the traitor reached the British camp. Standing sentry-like on the bold rock, and gathering the story from Capt. CRAM's lips, the scene seems so real that if a man suddenly appeared on the opposite shore, and you had a long-range rifle in your hand, you'd be very apt to send a bullet in his vicinity and shout: That for ARNOLD!

Many other points of interest the Captain pointed out, but we made our notes upon a tract that a reverend gentleman had given us; that tract is lost, and with it much valuable information. But of one thing we made a mental note at the time, and this it is: If all the young gentlemen so anxious to get into West Point, because they think an officer has nothing to do but to look pretty, rattle his sword, and draw his pay from Uncle Sam, if all these young men, I say, could talk with Capt. CRAM, and ascertain how much of physical and of mental labor is necessitated by the discharge of their duty, there would be a great diminution of applications for cadetships.

The cadets have rather a glorious time than otherwise. The discipline maintained among them is strict, to be sure, but they know that discipline makes the soldier, and never plead for a relaxation. Their hours of study, of exercise and of amusement are so well apportioned that none are irksome; and then, as a crowning enjoyment, the young gentlemen have the satisfaction of knowing they are prime favorites with the ladies. That is, with the young ladies, for those of maturer judgment prefer the Blues to the Greys. The bullet-buttons of the cadets, however, have great attractions for young damsels; they treasure them up as Generals do their trophies of war, and when the wardrobe of a poor Grey is wholly dismantled, it is not unusual to hear some feminine Alexander weeping because there are no more buttons to conquer. Sitting on the piazza of Roe's Hotel, this afternoon, I heard a maiden coaxing her father to remain over Sunday. "Just one day longer, dear papa," said she, exhibiting a jingling handful of bullet-buttons, "Here are five, and Sunday evening will surely make out the half dozen."

As several articles have of late appeared in Happer's Weekly, intimating that starvation prevailed at West Point, and that the health and comfort of the cadets were being sacrificed to enrich a contractor, it seemed to me well, that if such were the case, that the public should know of it through the columns of the TIMES, and I determined to give the matter a thorough examination. An inspection of the flour-barrel, meat-barrel, sugar repository, and other receptacles for edibles, very soon convinced me that the quality of the provisions could not be complained of; how it was as to quantity and cookery, could only be tested by actual experiment, for it is an old-time adage that meats and cooks are not sent by the same hand. Accordingly, through the kindness of Dr. CAMPBELL, I obtained an introduction to several gentlemanly cadets, and the cadets invited me to dinner. When the ranks at one o'clock were formed for that important duty, your correspondent marched in as a September Plebe. The cadets treat their visitors as politely as can be desired. They allow you to help yourself to anything not beyond your reach, and if you fasten to an unusually good and mealy potatoe, none of your neighbors presume to take it off your fork.

On the Friday when I chanced to dine with them the bill of fare was ample. We had ham and fish, potatoes, beets, lima-beans and green corn. I looked upon and eat heartily of each of its kind, and am conscientiously prepared to pronounce it good. The bread and butter was excellent. It was not my intention to abuse the hospitality of my entertainers, but I really eat so much that I was ashamed to look Capt. CHAMBLIN, the gallant commandant, or Mr. O'ROURKE, my worthy host, in the face. And from personal experience I am prepared to say, that if my good friend Mr. BONNER, of Harper's Weekly, never eats a worse meal than the cadets of West Point are obliged to, why then he is better off than editors generally. On the point of good fare I speak authoritatively; of literature I am no judge, but whether a bit of meat is judiciously boiled, judgmatically roasted, or discriminatively broiled, none can better decide than your correspondent. So far as a contractor getting rich from the mess-hall, the idea is perfectly absurd, since no contractor has anything to do with it. The gentleman in charge is paid a salary for his services; it is simply his province to purchase the best provisions at the lowest possible rates, and to see that none are wasted or misapplied. The regulations specify what the cadets shall have; the accounts of the gentleman who provides for them are subject to the strictest scrutiny. What possible chance exists for cheating would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to determine. Moreover, the character of the gentleman having charge of the mess-hall is such that no one knowing him would for a moment suspect him of unfairness, were unfairness possible. He is a small-sized man, and a mild-mannered man, too, apparently; but I, for one, would not like to hint in his hearing, or in the hearing of any of his friends, that he would or could be guilty of anything dishonorable. The cadets are as good and gentlemanly a set of fellows as you could well get together; but they are men, and men are as prone to grumble as women are to scold. You never yet saw a ship in which sailors were quite satisfied with their officers or with their fare. Men long for muffins, and when muffins come they long for something else. It is an unfortunate fact that we—

"Never are but always to be blest."

In dining with the cadets, I was aware that I eat among some-to-be Lieutenants, probable Majors and possible Generals, but notwithstanding, I kept my eyes about and only discovered some minor inconveniences about the mess-table. The vinegar cruets hold half-a-gallon, and are rather unwieldly things to handle—smaller cruets and salt-cellars, and more of them, would be a good amendment. A few more waiters might find employment, but this would raise the price of board, and then dissatisfaction might ensue. Lastly, fish and meat are placed upon the same plate; but owing to the limited time allowed for dinner, a distinct set of "covers" would be an impossibility. In short, it is my opinion, that when many of my young friends come to their blue coats and shoulder-straps, and are ordered to the frontiers in chase of Indians, they will then look back to the flesh-pots of West Point with longing.

In another letter I will tell you of flirtations, walks, and some other pleasant features of this ilk.

NEWPORT IN SEPTEMBER.

Who is at Newport—Old Saratoga Acquaintances—Solomon Surface and his Daughter—An Editor who is Unlike to most Editors—A Lady known to be a Lady by a Remark she made—Magdalen and a Memory—An Ungathered Rose and Familiar Verses thereon.

From Our Special Correspondent.

OCEAN HOUSE, NEWPORT, Friday, Sept. 7, 1860.

Who was it wrote to you that all the distinguished guests had left Newport? That person, be he whom he may, was sadly misinformed. Your correspondent has just arrived; our old friend, the Dowager, is here, though unaccompanied by her daughters; the Shepherdess is here, and so is Laura Matilda. The Counter-jumper, however, is not; the opening of the September trade called him home. Laura Matilda corresponds with him. I saw the superscription of one of her letters, the other day,—just caught a glimpse of it as the clerk was putting it into the letter-box. The address was written in an angular, pinny hand. The envelope bore marks of having been ruled in pencil; and a subsequent erasure with rubber was evident. The letter was sealed with a "motto wafer"—a little boy without trowsers was pinning two hearts together with a wooden skewer, and the "motto" was: "Say, am I not fondly thine own?" Capt. Jinglewood is at West Point,—his furlough expired with the month of August. Fitzfoodle is bucking against the Bank, at Saratoga, endeavoring to win back sone portion of the money he lost in the first part of the season, but Gustavus Adolphus is here, accompanied by a "friend."

Several artists of cosmopolitan celebrity are here—if they have not gone away. But I can tell you very little about them. An artist, in my mind, is always associated with the idea of a gentleman wearing long hair and prone to forget his board bills. Senator DOUGLAS was here a few weeks since, roaming about the beach in anxious quest of his mother. But no one remembers to have seen the old lady at Newport this season; on the contrary, they say she has spent the Summer at home, expecting a visit from her son. There will, unquestionably, be an affectionate meeting in November.

That tall, elderly gentleman, with grey eyes, grey hair, and rather stooping in his gait, is the celebrated Solomon Surface. He is very rich, and has the reputation of being very eccentric. His richness is real, but his eccentricity is affected—it gives him the opportunity of occasionally saving a dime on some whimsical pretence. It is certain that his eccentricity always runs into meanness; no one ever knew it to betray him into the opposite extreme of generosity. I said he was rich. To express what he is worth in the world you would have to use a unit, followed up by a comet-like tail of ciphers. To express what he is worth to the world, the ciphers alone would be sufficient. His annual income exceeds $100,000—not a very large amount, it is true, but yet a comfortable sum—yet, to my certain knowledge, he does not give $100 in charity. This may surprise you, for charity is his favorite theme; he discourses thereon with great unction, and is continually saying that he considers himself simply as a steward, holding property in trust for his Lord and Master. Of a verity, for safe-keeping, the money could not be in better hands. He never neglects an opportunity of giving advice to the poor—it is the only thing he ever gives—and he is fond of impressing upon young men that the only way to become rich is to deprive themselves of all the luxuries and half the necessaries of life, forgetting that had everyone followed this plan, he would never have accumulated the wealth he possesses; for Solomon Surface originally was a country merchant and sold ribbons as well as tapes, velvets as well as linsey-woolseys. The contrast between his theoretical charity and his practical stinginess, affords a very fair illustration of what HOOD meant when he said it was no sign that a man's stomach was full of food because he talked with victuals in his mouth. I hope that the subject of this sketch will repent in time to be saved; for, else, it will be more tolerable in the last great day for that loseling who filched a stick of peppermint candy from the hands of a sick child, than for thee, oh, Solomon Surface!

Jephtha had a daughter—so has old Surface. That is her, sitting yonder on the piazza. At first sight there seems nothing very attractive in her face, but if you look closely you will discern a rare loveability about the lines of the mouth, and a deep light in the eyes which tells of something hidden. That girl possesses the elements of a heroine, or, in plainer parlance, of a noble woman. She seems all cotton-wool to a casual observer, but a good steel spring lies in her disposition, that would make itself manifest if occasion called it forth. Some young artist will catch the latent beauty in her face, and fall deeply in love. She will go off to her home to live, and the young artist will go back to his attic in the city, to die. Some years after he will meet her here again, a passably good-looking woman, rather fat, the mother of several children, the light all snuffed out of her countenance; and then he will wonder how he ever loved a thing of wax.

That gentleman who sits near the head of the table at dinner is assistant editor on some provincial daily paper. Editors, generally, are the most genial gentlemen imaginable, especially those who have attained eminence in their profession. There is HORACE GREELEY, with his prairie-like brow and universal good-heartedness; Gen. WEBB, impulsive, but generous, and never arrogant; and I have in my mind's eye a pleasant little gentleman, who controls the columns of the most influential journal of the day, but is less ostentatious in his manner than the errand-boy of the office. This individual, however, is a rare exception to the general rule. He always looks as though he had swallowed a poker, and acts as though it disagreed with him. He sometimes tops his dignity, and gives vent to a joke, but his jokes are suggestive of molten iron—liquid, but not refreshing. Even a smile on his countenance, instead of breaking pleasantly like a sunbeam on a meadow, surges like an irritated billow on a hard-faced rock. To converse with him you must tickle his pride until he purrs; it is like stroking a Thomas-cat, however—press a single hair the wrong way, and up goes his back. I am very glad that the TIMES corps embraces no such specimen of mingled vanity and ill-nature.

Do you know that lady with many brilliant finger-rings, which she always takes especial pains to display? No? Well, neither do I—but I know she's a lady by a remark she made. She swore at a waiter the other day. Not a mild, mitigated oath, such as ladies are apt to indulge in; a "Good Gracious!" and "I vow!" or a "Plague take the thing!" but a regular meat-axe oath, with beveled edge and a short handle. Profanity from a pretty pair of lips is not pleasing. It startles one by its unexpectedness, for one would as soon expect a bullet from a rose-bud as an oath from a woman's mouth.

That pale girl, just passing, whom few know, and with whom none are intimate, is named Magdalen. She boards at a cottage near by. It was her misfortune to fall in love with an intellect and fancy she had found a heart. Many others have made the same mistake, and yet the two bear no more resemblance than diamond and coal. The elements of both are alike, but the combination is different. One sparkles and gives back brilliant rays to the sun, but you cannot fan it into warmth nor trust to its light,—the other is never brilliant—it kindles into a cheering flame, but never dazzles and never deceives. When a star falls from Heaven its sister planets pity and weep, but this is not the rule on earth. Charles Lucretius passes poor MAGDALEN by in scorn, but in the day when jewels are reset and the counterfeit rejected, then will Magdalen be honored, for in heart she is pure.

The old maid, who has just driven by in a private carriage, is a character. She was a great belle in her day, and, being an heiress as well, had offers enough to satisfy any reasonable woman, but she looked for perfection and a husband—the consequence is she has found neither. This suitor smoked, that one chewed, this one did not speak good French, and the other spoke bad English. So then she rides alone in her carriage, single and turned of forty—her day of grace is past. Here are some lines whereof she is the subject. I am aware that some one else has written something in the same vein, about a "Wreath of Roses," but still no one can accuse me of plagiarism,—the metre is like, but you will notice that the ideas are not at all similar:

She wore a robe of muslin
The night that first we met—
Her little feet were mousing
Beneath her coattipet:
Her dress had all the lightness,
Her air the stylish tone,
That mark a belle at twenty,
With a fortune all her own.

A skirt of rustling satin
When next we met she wore;
The spread of hoops and whalebone
Was greater than before,
And standing near her side were men
Who wooed, but wooed in vain;
She sent them all to Coventry,
And they went—on a train.

Yet, once again I saw that form—
No sighing swains were there—
A Summer rose had faded,
Shut out from sun and air;
I saw her but a moment,
Yet methinks I see her now,
With a poodle in her carriage,
And a wrinkle on her brow.

There, as BEN JONSON said to SYLVESTER, that may not be poetry; but I'll swear it's truth.

It was my intention to take you down to the beach this afternoon, and show you how the dowager and the shepherdess and Laura Matilda appear as ducks; but it is now too late. Besides, it has been raining all the morning, and people don't go in bathing when it rains—they are afraid of getting wet. We'll reserve our douche and plunge in the surf for another time.

The Sole Survivor of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

ACTON, Me., September, 1860.

To the Editor of the New-York Times.

Having taken up my residence at Acton for a short period, I have had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Mr. RALPH FARNHAM, or, as he is termed hereabout, in familiar and affectionate parlance, Old Uncle FARNHAM, and if a brief account of this venerable old man—whose name has only of late been brought before the public—will prove of interest to the readers of your valuable journal, you are welcome to publish this letter. Until a month or two ago it was supposed that no one was living who had taken part in the battle of Bunker Hill, but on the 7th of July last the residents of this section of the country celebrated Mr. RALPH FARNHAM'S 104th birthday, at Melton Mills, N. H., firing 104 guns, making speeches, dining together and giving toasts, with many other suitable demonstrations. It then became noised abroad, by means of the public press, that there yet remained one of that gallant and patriotic band that first encountered the British forces in a regular battle-field. Since then, Old Uncle FARNHAM has received numerous visitors, while letters have poured in upon him almost daily, from persons who solicited autographs, or who wished to make some inquiry respecting matters of which the old gentleman is supposed to have cognizance. While these letters prove the curiosity, and, perhaps, the good will of the writers, it is unreasonable to imagine that a man of his great age and in his condition of life can sit down and reply to correspondents, so numerous, that if the letters came to a man in office, he would be compelled to employ a secretary to respond to them; but I presume that each writer imagines himself to be the only one. As to the visitors—the old gentleman appears to be pleased, rather than otherwise, at the interest with which he is regarded. He receives all courteously and kindly, and enters freely into conversation, readily answering all questions that are put to him.

I received from him a history of the early period of his career. He related several anecdotes of WASHINGTON, PUTNAM and other leaders of the revolution, making remarks upon the characteristics of each. "Ah," he said, "WASHINGTON was a fine man. There are no such men as WASHINGTON living in these days." He recollects Gen. WASHINGTON perfectly well, and on one occasion he was addressed by him. Of PUTNAM, he said: "He was a rough old fellow; but as brave as a lion; he feared nothing nor nobody." Subsequently to the battle of Bunker Hill, Mr. RALPH FARNHAM served with the army through three campaigns,—during the years 1775-1777,—and at the close of the war in 1780, he came to the spot where he has since resided. The country round was then a vast wilderness, overgrown with forest trees, and infested with bears and other wild animals. He built himself a log hut and commenced the herculean task of felling the trees. His ax was the first whose ring resounded through the forest and awoke the slumbering echoes that have perhaps been silent since the creation. Other persons gradually settled around him; but he resided alone for four years, when he brought home a wife to enliven his solitude. She bore him seven children, of whom five are still living. With the second son, Mr. JOHN FARNHAM, the old man now resides. He is an astonishingly vigorous man for his years. Indeed he does not appear more than four-score. His habits are very regular. Summer and Winter he retires at 7 P. M. and rises at 5. He eats heartily, steps firmly and sleeps soundly, and to all appearance may yet live several years. He joined the Freewill Baptist Church eighty years ago, and is a very religious man. He spends much of his time in reading his Bible, which he can read with ease with the aid of a pair of spectacles which belonged to his mother, and are 160 years old! In fact, he is in possession of all his faculties, save that he is afflicted with a slight deafness; but not such as to render conversation with him an arduous task. I listened with a degree of interest that I cannot describe, to the fine old gentleman's descriptions of occurrences which, to most men now living, are events of an age long gone by. I shall visit him again, and if you please, may probably send you another letter; but my time is short and my sheet is full, so for the present I subscribe myself,

Yours, &c., W. D.

New-York and New-Haven Railroad.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

NEW-HAVEN, Monday, Sept. 3, 1860.

On Sunday night I took the train from Bridgeport to New-Haven, and the Conductor charged $2, (only 18 miles,) saying that on Sundays there were no way-stations, and passengers from any point must pay through from New-York.

Has a road a right thus to impose upon the public? Should it not either run no passenger car, or else carry passengers reasonably, at but a small advance on the usual price, if any is necessary?

This is the case on the other roads of the line between New-York and Boston—25 cents over the usual fare will carry one over either of them.

Few persons travel on Sundays, except those whose necessities compel them, and of those few the New-Haven road seems determined to take the utmost advantage.

The conduct of the Corporation in this matter contrasts most unfavorably with that of the other roads. Is there no remedy?

J. L. STITH.

ANOTHER TRANSATLANTIC AERONAUT.—Mr. JOHN WISE, the well-known aeronaut, writes a letter to the Lancaster (Penn.) Express, detailing experiments which he has made to determine the state of the upper atmosphere. In conclusion, he says:

"It gives me pleasure to announce to you that I have enlisted the action of well-trained scientific minds to this much-neglected subject. Among them, Dr. WM. H. HELME, of Providence, R. I., and it will not be long before a decisive demonstration will be made to settle the question of transatlantic, transcontinental and circummundane ballooning, should even Mr. LOWE fail to demonstrate a favorable point in its progress with his machinery, ponderous with which he has so long 'legerdemained.'

While I am fully convinced that light machinery is better adapted to the uses of air-sailing than clumsy and heavy equipments, I am nevertheless satisfied that Mr. LOWE'S contrivance might be made available to cross the ocean with, if used in a season of the year when the eastward current moves nearest the earth, which to my experience is in the season between the months of March and July; and I trust that he will at least make a fair essay on the present occasion, and thus exonerate himself from the obloquy his tardy and suspicious movements have subjected him to. I positively know that his long delays are not necessary to a fair trial, but that they are just the reverse."

LAW REPORTS.

Howe's Sewing-Machine Patent.

ARGUMENT OF GEORGE GIFFORD, ESQ., IN FAVOR OF EXTENSION—THE PATENT EXTENDED FOR SEVEN YEARS.

The extension of Mr. Howe's Sewing-Machine patent was announced in yesterday's TIMES. To-day we give somewhat more in extenso, the grounds which governed the decision of the United States Commissioner of Patents, which are those presented in the argument before him, of George Gifford, Esq., counsel for the applicant, in which the merits of the case are fully discussed. Mr. Gifford's argument, which extends over eighty pages of print, is to the effect that it is the law and established practice of the Patent-office to grant or refuse extensions of patents, not according to the profit received by the patentee, irrespective of the public value of the invention, but according to the ratio between the profit and the public value; and that tested by this rule, Howe's is the most meritorious application which has ever been before the Patent-office; that Mr. Howe was the first inventor of the first practical sewing-machine ever known, and not only so, but was the author and introducer of the art of machine-sewing; that that art now is and always has been dependent upon his invention; that his invention was not merely of the needle, (as some have supposed,) but of a combination of four classes of mechanism indispensable in a practical sewing-machine; that all sewing-machines are based upon and employ his inventions; and that the world is indebted to him for machine-sewing. The argument also shows by different modes of computation, that the value of sewing in the United States, capable of being done by the sewing machines, is at least $342,000,000 per year, and that Howe's machine, if applied to this work, in the exact form in which he made his first one in 1845, would save to the public in the United States at least $171,000,000 a year; that the sewing machine has already entered into and revolutionized more than 37 distinct departments of manufacture; that it has created new branches of manufacture, enlarged old ones, diminished importations by enlarging domestic manufactures, cheapened articles to consumers, raised the wages of laboring women, and changed them from unhealthy to healthy employments.

That Mr. Howe lost the benefit of half of the original term of his patent by contending, without pecuniary means, with the public prejudice against the use of sewing-machines; that although inventive genius had for ages been awakened to the importance of saving the labor of the hand needle, and inventors of all civilized countries had made efforts to produce a practical sewing-machine, the glory and honor of success remained to Mr. Howe, and to America, his native country. The argument proves Mr. Howe, in respect to the benefit which his invention is conferring upon mankind, and the health-destroying confinement from which it has released sewing-women, to be one of the greatest benefactors found in the ranks of inventors. It shows that the annual saving by the machine in the City of New-York on men's and boy's clothing alone is $7,500,000 a year; on hats and caps in New-York, $462,500 a year; on shirt-bosoms in New-York, $843,750 a year; on boots and shoes in Massachusetts alone, $7,500,000 a year, and on other articles at a like rate.

We have not space to enter more in detail, but would advise those who wish to be more informed on the subject, to read Mr. Gifford's argument, wherein they will find the whole subject treated with great ability and clearness.

On the grounds taken in the argument of Mr. Gifford, the Commissioner of Patents decided to extend the patent seven years.

The Record Commission.

PEREMPTORY MANDAMUS GRANTED.

W. C. Wetmore et al. vs. The Board of Supervisors.—This was the return to an alternative mandamus in the case, which was argued at Chambers of the Supreme Court, before Justice SUTHERLAND, on the 17th of August, and was stated in the TIMES on the following day. The Court now rendered decision granting a peremptory mandamus, requiring the Board of Supervisors to provide, by insertion in the tax levy or otherwise, for the payment of $80,000 to the Commissioners of Record, to be used in payment for public printing.

The order is made in pursuance of the recent Act of the Legislature, and the Board of Supervisors are directed to carry out its provisions.

Surrogate's Court.

WILLS ADMITTED TO PROBATE.

Will of Victor Gifford Audubon.—The testator was the son of the great naturalist of his name. His will gave his entire estate to his widow, Georgiana R. Audubon, whether she lived a widow or again married, and appointed her executrix, together with John W. Audubon and George Burgess, executors.

Will of John W. Bowden.—The testator gave his widow, Marion Bowden, $500 per annum for five years subsequently to his death, provided she remained his widow; also a large lot of household furniture, books, &c. She is also given the right of dower in the remaining estate. To his son, J. W. Bowden, he gave his gold watch and jewelry, and all his books, except those devised to his widow; the son to come into possession at the age of eighteen years.

The will then gave the entire residue of testator's estate to the son, and appointed Samuel M. Bowden his guardian.

Robert Bowden and James C. Ramsey were appointed executors.

The above wills and the will of John T. Allen were now admitted to probate.

Too Young to go Soldiering.

Matter of John Eagan.—This was an application by the parents of a lad of 17 years, who had enlisted without their knowledge or consent, to have him discharged from service in the army of Uncle Sam.

The matter was now up on habeas corpus before Justice SUTHERLAND at Chambers of the Supreme Court. It appearing that the boy was but 17, the Court held that he was not bound by his enlistment, and discharged him from his military duties.

Charge of Arson Dismissed.

The People vs. Robert E. Burns.—The accused was arrested in June last, upon a charge of arson, upon complaint of the Fire Marshal, for burning his picture gallery, No. 365 Eighth-avenue, on the 18th of May last, and was honorably discharged by the Court, Judge CONNOLLY presiding, there being no evidence to sustain the charge.

It appears from the evidence that the property was insured in the People's Fire Insurance and the Fireman's Fund Insurance Companies; that the People's Fire Insurance Company had paid their proportion of the loss, but the Fireman's Fund contested the claim, upon the ground that the insurance was excessive, leading the Fire Marshal to suspect there was something wrong: but upon the examination, it clearly appeared that the loss exceeded the amount of insurance; that there was not only no motive on the part of the accused to fire the building, but it also clearly appeared that Mr. Burns could not have been guilty of the charge.

The Weekly Averages of the Banks of the City of New-York, on Saturday, Sept. 8, 1860, present in the aggregate the following changes from the previous exhibit of Sept. 8:

Increase in Specie.....................	152,583
Increase in Circulation	284,808
Decrease in Undrawn Deposits......	2,361,136

Including the Clearing-house operations of the week, which show the inter-exchanges between the Banks, and including, also, the Sub-Treasury statement of Saturday, the following is the general comparison with the previous exhibit, and also with the movement this time last season:

The Bank returns, as anticipated, shows a further considerable reduction of Loans and Discounts. The total is now below one hundred and twenty-eight millions, the reduction for the fortnight being $2,579,000. The deficit line is correspondingly down, while the Specie average is slightly better than last week, and more employment is shown for Bank Note circulation. The present week opens on a steady market for Discounts, and a fairly active inquiry for Money on demand Loan, both at 7 per cent. as the rule of the Street and at Bank, with exceptions at 6½ per cent. on prime short acceptances, and 6 per cent. on Money voluntarily left on deposit with the Stock Brokers. The Foreign Exchanges have not fairly opened for the Steamer sailing direct on Wednesday. The rates on London, Bankers' Bills, range 109⅝@109⅞ per cent., the market unsettled.

On the Stock Exchange, to-day, there was a further rise on New-York Central Shares of one per cent., and with this improvement, several of the other New-York and Western Roads sympathized; the demand from speculative buyers creating a very strong market throughout the day, the closing prices being fully up to the best sales of the day. Sellers met the demand to a fair extent, though the actual business accomplished is scarcely equal to that of Friday and Saturday last. Some hesitation was shown at the early Board on Galena and Chicago and Chicago and Rock Island, and also on Michigan Central, but this was overcome on Galena in the afternoon, the stock leaving off 79⅝@79¾ ℘ cent. Compared with the last prices of Saturday the following are the closing figures, the market leaving off firm:

The shares of the Pacific Mail are down, on the rumor that Mr. ROBERTS is to take the management of the Atlantic connection, in place of Mr. VANDERBILT, whose steamship interest in the California trade, it is said, is about to be reduced. We are not apprised that either of these gentlemen have any direct connexion with the management of the line on the Pacific side. The State Stocks were in fair demand and steady in price. In Railway Bonds, the Michigan Southern seconds fell off 1 ℘ cent., while Eries and Illinois Centrals were firm. The first mortgages of the Mississippi and Missouri line are selling 68@68½ cash, and 69 buyer's option, and the Chicago and Northwestern seconds at 35 ℘ cent.

The Secretary of the Treasury proposes to withdraw and fund in a ten years' five ℘ cent. Stock $10,000,000 of Treasury Bills, by the 22d November next, the loan for this object to be awarded on the 22d October, either in a coupon or registered stock, at the option of the highest bidders. The following is the official notification:

"Sealed proposals will be received at this Department until 12 o'clock noon Monday, the twenty-second day of October next, for ten millions of dollars of Stock of the United States, to be issued under the act of Congress of the 22d of June last, authorizing a loan and providing for the redemption of Treasury notes, at which time the proposals will be opened and decided on. The Stock will be reimbursable in ten years from the first day of January next, and will bear interest at five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, on the first days of January and July of each year.

No offer will be accepted below par, and none for any fraction of one thousand dollars. Nor will any offer be considered unless one per centum of the amount thereof is deposited with a depositary of the United States, subject to the order of the Secretary of the Treasury. The certificate of such deposit must accompany the proposals. In all cases the offers must be unconditional, without reference to other offers, and must state the rate of premium offered.

The proposals should be indorsed on the outside, 'Proposals for Loan of 1860,' and be addressed, 'To the Secretary of the Treasury, Washington, D. C.'

The best bidders under the foregoing conditions, for the aggregate sum of $10,000,000, will be immediately informed by mail of the acceptance of their offers, and they must deposit the amount so accepted, with the premium thereon, with the Treasurer of the United States, or the Assistant Treasurer at Boston, New-York, Philadelphia, Charleston, New-Orleans, or St. Louis, on or before the 22d day of November next. Should successful bidders desire to deposit at other points their wishes will be duly considered on being stated to this Department.

Certificates of inscribed stock will be issued in sums not less than $1,000 each, to the successful bidders, or their assigns, for the principal so deposited, carrying interest at the rate of five per centum from the date of such deposit. Such stock will be transferable on the books of the Treasury, agreeably to the regulations of the Department.

Should any of the successful bidders require certificates of stock with coupons of semi-annual interest payable thereon from the 1st of January next, such certificates will be issued with such coupons attached, in sums of $1,000 each; and such coupon stock, instead of being transferable on the books of the Treasury, may be assigned and transferred by the delivery of the certificates. The interest on the last named stock from the date of the first day of deposit to the 1st day of January next, will be paid to the successful bidder, or his attorney, by the depositary with whom the principal was deposited.

The preliminary of one per centum, required upon all proposals under this notice, will be included in the deposits of principal and premium made by successful bidders, and will be immediately directed to be returned to the unsuccessful bidders.

HOWELL COBB, Secretary of the Treasury."

The Canal Revenues of New-York, to the close of August, reach the large sum of $1,563,896. No such result has been attained since the season of 1853. The excess over 1859 is $668,731, and the calculation is that the gain to the close of navigation will amount to a million of dollars. The last week in August more than doubled the receipts of the corresponding week last season, and the whole month of August shows:

Canal Tolls, August, 1860..............	$409,439
Against August, 1859..................	208,914
Increase, August, 1860................	$200,525

The Albany Journal estimates that the surplus revenue of the Canals this season will amount to $1,600,000 against $962,000 last year.

The London Economist, one of the highest financial authorities of Great Britain, thus refers to our American Railways:

"There has been a very considerable demand for American Railways. This demand has arisen, first, from a sounder state of affairs generally in America; secondly, from the prosperity arising from good crops, both of corn and cotton. Both in America and in this country an increasing demand for the principal lines has in consequence taken place, the Illinois Central, and New-York and Erie being most sought after. An impulse has been given to the shares of the New-York and Erie line by reason of the progress of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway, the first section of which is now completed. It is very possible that a stimulus has been given to American Railway Securities by the statistics given by Capt. GALTON in his official report on the Railways of Great Britain, which shows the following remarkable results:

	England.	United States.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The steamship Bohemian is announced, as we go to press, as having arrived at Father Point on her way to Quebec. The advices from Europe are one day later.

The intelligence from Truxillo, which we publish this morning, indicates that we were right in our conjecture that the expedition of the fillibuster WALKER was doomed to come to a sudden termination. By way of Havana we learn that the Commander of the British man-of-war, reported as having been there, made a demand upon WALKER for the surrender of the place, which he complied with. He evacuated the city on the 1st inst., and proceeded down the coast, harassed on the way continually by the Hondurians, under GUARDIOLA. WALKER is represented to have been severely wounded in the face, and to have lost a large proportion of his men.

The difficulties at Toronto have all been happily adjusted, and the ceremonies arranged for the occasion of the stay of the Prince of Wales there, will proceed to-day. The Duke of Newcastle, yesterday accepted an apology from the Mayor, for the appearance of the Orange emblems, on the occasion of the Prince's landing, in a note which we publish elsewhere. The County Master of the Orangemen also issued a proclamation, in which he disclaimed all responsibility on the part of the leaders, for the belligerent demonstrations of Sunday, alleging that the banners and other emblems displayed, were obtained surreptitiously from the lodge-rooms. The Duke of Newcastle, however, notwithstanding his aversion to Orange arches, was caught yesterday. The Royal party made a visit to Collingwood and the intermediate places, and on the way they unexpectedly found two arches covered with the insignia of the order, portrait of King WILLIAM and all, and the Orangemen in attendance with banners, etc. The matter was laughed off under the raillery of the Prince, and no further difficulty is to be apprehended.

According to our Washington dispatches, the idea of intervention in Mexican affairs on the part of England and France is abandoned, for the present. At least such are now their declarations to our Government. It is alleged, also, that all they contemplated in any event was friendly advice to Mexico, in which the United States were asked to unite. If only friendly advice was to be administered to our unhappy neighbor, it is difficult to imagine why the idea should be dropped, as she certainly stands as much in need of it now as ever she did.

Meantime, as we learn from the New-Orleans Picayune, intelligence has been received that a general pronunciamiento in favor of the return of Ex-President COMONFORT to power in Mexico has been planned, and is on the eve of consummation. This movement, says the Picayune, though first inaugurated in the Northern States of the Republic, is not confined to them, but extends over the whole country. It is alleged that the highest officials in all the States adhering to the Liberal cause are in the secret, and will all pronounce simultaneously. Gen. DOBLADO who recently won so decided a victory over M[illegible]ON, is one of the leaders, and his success, it is expected, will precipitate the arrangement immediately. What is to become of JUAREZ and the present Liberal Government at Vera Cruz, in this event, does not yet appear; and it is perhaps worth while to add, by way of comment upon the whole story, that the friends of Gen. COMONFORT in New-York have the free use of pen and paper, and that the hope of a movement to restore the General to power may possibly have been father to the belief that such a movement actually exists.

Our Government, it seems, does not credit the report that Mr. CLAY is likely to effect an amicable adjustment of the claims against Peru. His instructions were positive, and under them, a settlement could only be made after an acknowledgment on the part of Peru that she was in the wrong, the mere question of dollars and cents being comparatively a trifling matter. As Peru persistently refuses to make this acknowledgment, and laughs at the naval force sent there—which she well knows has no power to fire a gun—it is difficult to imagine how any negotiation can have been entered into which promises an amicable termination.

No further particulars of importance relative to the loss of the steamer Lady Elgin have reached us. The City of Milwaukee, upon which place the loss of life falls most heavily, is represented to be shrouded in mourning.

The Overland Pony Express brings advices from San Francisco to the 29th ult. Business continued much the same as at previous dates. There had been several strikes for the ten-hour system among the laborers in the city, which had been partially sustained. Political mass-meetings were being held throughout the State, and were causing much excitement. The four State Conventions were to be held at Sacramento between the 2d and the 11th inst., and primaries for the election of Delegates were being held in all the counties. The contestants in the Broderick will case had applied for a commission to take testimony in this City.

Advices from Santa Fe, New-Mexico, to the 27th ult., are received. Gov. RENCHER had issued a manifesto refusing to call for volunteers for operations against the Indians, contending that there are sufficient troops of the regular army for all practical purposes. Col. FAUNTLEROY, in command of the troops in the Territory, had received orders from the War Department for the most energetic movements against the Navajo Indians.

Our correspondent at Salt Lake City, gives us details of Utah news to the 17th of August. The intelligence of greatest interest, is that relating to the Indian troubles. Lieut. WEED and company, had had several skirmishes with them at various points, and had killed a number of them. It was believed that his energy had resulted in clearing the mail route through the Territory, of all the hostile bands. BRIGHAM YOUNG had sent out mule teams with 2,500 pounds of flour and 500 pounds of bacon, to meet the first hand-cart train across the plains, which was soon expected to arrive. BRIGHAM certainly seems disposed to take good care of his proselytes.

The Maine State elections for the choice of State officers and members of Congress, took place yesterday, and resulted in the triumph of the Republicans, Mr. WASHBURNE, their candidate for Governor, being elected by a heavily increased vote.

Mr. BENJAMIN WOOD'S letter, accepting the terms of union proposed by the Breckinridge State Committee, which was forwarded to Dean RICHMOND, Chairman of the Douglas State Committee on Sunday for ratification, was returned to him last evening unanswered, thereby implying something more than a refusal to ratify the bargain made by Mr. WOOD. The union of the two parties on one electoral ticket may therefore be considered as hopeless. The Douglas Campaign Club of this City, at a meeting held last evening, passed resolutions denouncing union with the Breckinridge men on any terms.

We have already noticed the fact that Mr. HOWE has secured the extension of his sewing-machine patent for seven years. To-day, in consequence of the importance of the case, we give an outline of the argument of Mr. GEORGE GIFFARD, upon which the decision of the U. S. Commissioner of Patents was based. The ground-work of his argument is that the established practice of the Patent-office is to grant or deny an extension of a patent, not on the showing of the profit received by the invention, but upon a fair estimate of the value of the patent to the public. By witnesses, Mr. GIFFARD showed that the value of sewing in the United States was $342,000,000, and that the saving by the use of this machine over hand-sewing was $171,000,000 a year. He also showed that the ratio of profits to the inventor of other important machines was from 18 to 40, while on the same principle, Mr. HOWE had not received the lowest amount, although the practice of the Court had been to grant nearly the full estimated value, and claimed that the ratio thus far received by Mr. HOWE was not one in several hundreds. On the above grounds the Commissioner, after deliberation, decided to extend the patent seven years, which, of course, will make a very rich man of Mr. HOWE.

In Chambers of the Supreme Court, Justice SUTHERLAND yesterday rendered his decision in the case of the Record Commissioners against the Board of Supervisors, granting the peremptory mandamus asked by the plaintiffs. The $80,000 must therefore be provided. The same Justice in the same Court, discharged a minor of seventeen years of age from the army, holding that being so young he was not bound by his enlistment. In the Surrogate's Court the will of VICTOR GIFFORD AUDUBON—son of AUDUBON, the naturalist—was admitted to probate. It contained no devises of any interest. The wills of JOHN W. BOWDEN and JOHN T. ALLEN were also admitted.

The Stock market, yesterday, was firm and active, with a further rise of one ℔ cent. in New-York Central Shares, closing 87 ℔ cent. In Money no alteration of rates. The Bank returns show a further reduction of $1,544,000. Specie line steady.

The sales of Flour, Wheat and Corn were quite extensive. Shippers bought freely, and prices closed higher. A moderate business was transacted in Provisions, Cotton, Rice, Hay, Whisky, and the principal kinds of Oils and Naval Stores. Sugars were in fair demand. Hops were actively sought after. Other branches of trade presented no really new feature.

Douglas and Anti-Douglas.

It is very interesting to all outsiders to watch the developments of the fight between the two factions of the Democracy. In our own State, projects of uniting them both with the Bell men on one ticket, are rife, and the air is full of the rumors of their "sweet bargaining." The tone and attitude of the two parties towards each other, is therefore just now very different from what it was when Mr. DICKINSON appeared at the Cooper Institute in full war paint, and announced his purpose whenever he dealt with the Soft faction again, to be well armed with tomahawk and scalping-knife. But in other sections of the Union, the tone of matters is far different. DOUGLAS denounces BRECKINRIDGE as a Disunionist, and BRECKINRIDGE, repelling the accusation, charges DOUGLAS in turn, with having broken faith, and "with representing principles "repugnant alike to reason and the Constitution."

It is also especially interesting here at the North to notice the different attitudes which each faction assumes on the Slavery question. They do not say so much about it here, though we doubt not that bold men will be found in each branch of the party who will in quiet corners where the echo of their remarks is sure not to be heard south of Mason's & Dixon's line, assert that the interests of freedom require the success of their faction, just as Gov. HUNT proclaims himself to be a safer friend to freedom than the Republicans. In the main, however, both parties are content to say little about that question at the North and to discuss rather the regularity of their respective nominations and the danger to the Union from the election of LINCOLN.

At the South, however, it is far different. There their partisans vie with each other in proclaiming the indebtedness of Slavery to their respective chiefs, and the attachment of those chiefs to the slaveholding interest. The Breckinridge men also denounce DOUGLAS in unmeasured terms as a foe to Slavery, in which point they have rather the advantage of the Douglas men, who cannot bring that charge against BRECKINRIDGE, though they defend their candidate pretty well against it. In Missouri, especially, this course of conduct is pursued with great bitterness and pertinacity. The Breckinridge men there, under the lead of Senator GREEN and others, have just determined to call a separate State Convention, and run a separate ticket of their own; and having determined upon this course, which destroys the hopes entertained by the Douglasites of carrying the State, they are accordingly especially bitter against DOUGLAS to justify themselves. The Jefferson Examiner, for instance, fills its columns with the most determined assaults upon him. In one article, it brings against him the old prejudices against Abolitionism as follows:

> The Douglas Squatters, not content with following DOUGLAS into the Squatter camp, (and from thence, God knows whither,) complain of the Democracy because they, too, will not follow them. They do not consider that there is a radical difference between us and them. In our judgment, they yield the whole question to the Black Republicans. Once concede that the Squatters are right, and half the battle is lost. The victory of Squatterism is the victory of the Abolitionists. Let it be understood that Squatterism shall prevail, and it will be as effectual a bar to Slavery in the Territories as the Wilmot Proviso. Indeed, it is neither more nor less than the Wilmot Proviso by another name. It will be useless after that to attempt further to make slave territory. The Abolitionists will have gained a triumph without a struggle. The field of battle will then be changed from the Territories to the States. The "irrepressible conflict" between free and slave labor will then begin in earnest. The John Brown raid, the Texas insurrection, will pale, will sink into utter nothingness before the bloody scenes that will follow. Citizens of Missouri, are you ready for this?—are you ready to see your homes wrapt in flames—your wives and little ones butchered, and your daughters the victims of Ethiopian lust? If you are, you should vote for STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS for President, and aid him in fixing his squatterism on the country. His squatterism leads to that as sure as the sun shineth—as sure as God liveth.

In another article, in the same paper, it brings out the old charge of Federalism, and fires it at him. In another it assails the regularity of his nomination. In another it charges him with having formerly pledged himself to abide by the decision of the Supreme Court on the question of the right of the Territorial Legislature, and asks, "Has he done so? We all know that he has not?" In another it cites triumphantly against him the unscrupulous declaration of some of the Douglas papers in Illinois that the repeal of the Missouri Compromise was a measure in the interest of freedom. Prominent in another article is an extract from one of his speeches in Illinois, in 1858, containing the famous remark about excluding Slavery by "unfriendly legislation," followed up by the inquiry, "Does this look like abiding the decision of the Supreme Court?" And everywhere through its columns the words Squatter Sovereignty, and Abolitionism, and Sectionalism, are found in what to Mr. DOUGLAS we should fancy would be most unwonted and unpleasant contiguity with his own name.

Nor are the Douglas organs backward in the fight. They pursue it with a boldness, an unscrupulousness of assertion, and an eagerness to show themselves sound on the Slavery question, well worthy of their leader. The Western Missourian, for instance, quotes from the Raleigh Standard an article which gives DOUGLAS the credit of the annexation of Texas, the defeat of the Wilmot Proviso, and the repeal of the Missouri Restriction, and adds:

> Under the doctrine of non-intervention, established by DOUGLAS in 1854, the South has absolutely gained 83,000 square miles of slaveholding territory. How? Why, the Territorial Government of New-Mexico has enacted a slave code as full and as stringent as the slave code of North Carolina, and Slavery is thus protected in that Territory, and of the 250,000 square miles of that Territory, 83,000 square miles, embracing the oldest and most thickly-settled portion, are situated north of the Missouri line.

But not satisfied with thus showing Mr. DOUGLAS' devotion to the interests of the South, it proceeds to give its readers confidence that he can be relied upon on the question of the Territories, and we find that it publishes the platform of the Douglas Democracy fixed over to suit that meridian, and that particular question, and the following are the resolutions which it publishes on the question. The Italics are our own.

> Resolved, That all citizens of the United States have an equal right to settle with their property (slaves included,) in the Territories, and that neither Congress nor the Legislature of the Territory has any authority to destroy or injure the rights of person or property.
> That it is the duty of the Federal Government, in all its departments, to protect the rights of person and property in the Territories and wherever its Constitutional authority extends.

It seems to us that if the slaveholders of Missouri want anything further than is embraced in that platform, in reference to the Territories, they must be hard to please. If all citizens of the United States have an equal right to settle there "with their property, slaves included," if there is no power anywhere to destroy or injure that right, and if it is the duty of the Federal Government to protect that right, we do not see what more can be asked, as far as the Territories are concerned, or what higher bid for slaveholding votes the Douglas men can offer. We only hope that the people of the North may act with the full understanding of how far each candidate is ready to go—nothing else is needed to lay them both quietly on the shelf.

The Confusion of the Democratic Fusion.

Mr. BENJAMIN WOOD'S maiden effort at a political coup d'état has not been crowned with a positively brilliant success. The telegraph curtly informs us this morning, that the Albany Regency decline with indignation to stultify themselves on the basis so liberally provided for them by the aspiring brother of his Excellency the Mayor. The letter announcing Mr. WOOD'S successful settlement of Democratic differences, was last evening returned without an answer to its writer. The Douglas leaders in the City treat the proposition with equal contumely, and utterly refuse to "fuse."

So far as the Albany magnates, at least, are concerned, it is not very clear that they occupy a much better position now than they did when they appointed Mr. WOOD'S Sub-Committee, in order to shift upon other shoulders the responsibility of a party division beyond their control.

Their action of yesterday was, of course, inevitable. After scornfully rejecting at Charleston and at Baltimore all propositions looking to a compromise with the old "Hard-Shell" Democrats, now arrayed under the Breckinridge banner—after deploying all the wiles of CAGGER, and all the vigor of CHURCH, to break up the great Democratic Party, rather than suffer HORATIO SEYMOUR to receive a united nomination, but too likely, as they wisely feared, to result in his triumphant election—for the Regency now to concede to the Breckinridge leaders an equal share with themselves in the organization of the party would have been a consummate act of political hari-kari. Apart from the larger national consideration that an alliance of the kind proposed between the Douglas and the Breckinridge interest would have been simple ruin to the hopes of the former in the North, while it would have infused new life into the fading prospects of the latter at the South, the Albany manipulators could never venture to face the personal results of such an arrangement, before their fellow-partisans of New-York. "What manner of conciliation is this," the rude Democracy naturally would ask, "which is impracticable at Charleston and Baltimore, in the supreme moments of the party organization, but becomes as easy as by your leave, at the eleventh hour in a sub-committee room of New-York? What peace-makers are these, whose hearts are as the nether mill-stone against the urgency of the most conspicuous men in the party, during a contest for the most important nomination which the Democracy have ever been called upon to make, but who suddenly become as pliable as wax in the hands of Mr. JOHN A. GREEN, and half-a-dozen other strictly domestic politicians?"

Questions like these DEAN RICHMOND and Mr. PETER CAGGER cannot possibly endure the thought of provoking, and these will not now be put to them. But in escaping this horn of the Democratic dilemma, they are fastened upon the other. They must now go before the Democracy of the Empire State and confess, indeed, assert, with all imaginable emphasis, that they prefer a coalition with the Know-Nothing Bell-Everett decemvirs, to any coöperation with the most inflexibly Democratic of ancient Democrats. How this position will be relished by the "rank and file," the November contest in this City perhaps may show, not altogether to the satisfaction either of the Dean or the Dean's man. The Mozart Hall Democracy, indeed, in their delight at being taken to the embrace of the Regency, seem to have been for some time ready to raise their "most sweet voices" in exultation over any proposition made by PETER CAGGER, to whom the Dean has virtually surrendered the helm. But the long-headed aborigines of Tammany Hall have sagaciously kept aloof from the "accursed thing." They took no part in the proceedings of the last Democratic State Convention, steadily refusing to vote on any question, and protesting against the Brooks-Cagger programme as insulting to all adopted citizens.

To the country at large, this whole history pretty plainly announces the election of the Republican candidates by the people, since its upshot makes the notion of an orderly and combined assault of the confused fusionists upon the Empire State rather more than absurd. If the Regency or the Breckinridge leaders or the Bell-Everett men, any or all of them, really believe that the election of LINCOLN and HAMLIN will be followed by a deliberate secession from the Union of one or more Southern States, it is safe to infer that they are all Disunionists at heart, for they are certainly working together with astonishing success to bring about that result.

Orangeism and the Prince.

The Orange excitement in Canada West appears to be increasing, rather than subsiding, and the infection of a partisan religious animosity is spreading over the Province. The extreme danger to the public peace, in such demonstrations as those contemplated by the Orange Societies of Kingston and Toronto, is familiar to every one's experience. Bigotry begets bigotry, and hatred begets hatred. In a free country like Canada—if the people are ambitious to make it a free country—the very first attempt to renew upon its soil those barbaric feuds that have so stained the civilization of Ireland, should be met and peremptorily rebuked.

If there is no law in Canada against processions that inevitably lead to riot and bloodshed, the sooner one is enacted the better it will be for the peace and prosperity of the Colony. In this matter there should be no distinction of creeds. Our own sympathies are, of course, in favor of Protestantism and Freedom; but the Irish Orange Society, which has extended its roots to the British Provinces, is no honest supporter of either political or religious liberty. A society that seeks to commemorate and keep constantly alive the defeat, disgrace, and deep degradation of its own kinsmen and country, must be lost to every generous instinct. A society whose emblems and banners, whose laws, conduct and public demonstrations are an insult to people professing another faith, has nothing in common with the broad liberality of sound constitutionalism or the universal charity of our Protestant creed. An ocean of drivel filters through Irish journals about their down-trodden country; but they have found, before now, its most active curse in the dissensions that gave birth to Orangeism and Ribbonism. The Province of Canada is in danger of becoming the victim of even a greater misfortune. The argument of se defendendo has been often made the excuse of Irish Orangeism; but its promising Canadian offspring has no such apology to offer. It has been started where Protestantism is in the ascendant, where Catholicism has assumed its mildest and most unobjectionable form, where religious liberty is guaranteed to all, and where the law is fully able to protect the humblest citizen. The very existence of a Canadian Orange organization is evidence of the overbearing and malignant spirit that one section of the population entertains towards the other, and of a besotted ignorance that endangers the peace and prosperity of a rising empire, by the perpetuation of the political and religious proscriptions of the darkest ages.

The position of the Prince of Wales, in the face of the Canadian Orange demonstrations, has been one of extreme delicacy. His Highness was not invited to Canada by any sect or organization, and it seems an act of outrageous tyranny that any sect or organization should have had the power to prevent him responding to the invitation extended by the whole people. Such is the act, however, for which the Orangemen of Kingston and Belleville must be held responsible; for it was clearly impossible for the Prince by his presence, in Kingston or Belleville, to countenance a demonstration that was likely to lead to a breach of the peace. Some of the Canadian Orangemen, with more delicacy than their brethren, have been able to recognize, in the attitude of their Order, the wanton insult that it conveyed to the Royal guest and his hosts, and in Toronto it was resolved to abandon the idea of any demonstration of a partisan character. A few rowdies, in defiance of public opinion, hoisted, on Sunday last, an Orange flag upon the arch beneath which the Prince was appointed to pass; but the extremely sensitive Duke of Newcastle turned his back upon the obnoxious emblem, in a way that could not fail to attract attention. The mob grew wroth; they hissed and hooted; and popular excitement, which had been allayed with much trouble, was re-awakened. It certainly appears to us that this last protest was hardly called for. In refusing to land at Kingston and Belleville, the Prince had shown his determination to discountenance partisan demonstrations, but it was hardly dignified to take open objection to the flaunting of a solitary Orange flag. Under the circumstances of the case, the Duke might have consistently ignored a paltry insult that was pointed by a few unmannerly people at himself alone, and thereby have averted an incident that will leave unpleasant memories in the mind of the Prince, and well add venom to the prejudices of the Toronto Orangemen.

It is perhaps well for Canada that this exhibition of Orangeism should have taken place, for it will expose the danger of fostering a spirit so hostile to the liberality of the age, and so detrimental to the true interests of a free country. Orangeism and Ribbonism are symbols and superstitions of a bygone century. They have made Ireland the scorn and contempt of the world, and the very name of Irishman a synonym for all that is turbulent and blood thirsty. The transplantation of these societies to the British Provinces, is an act of demagogueism that the people would do well to suppress without delay, if they wish to lay up for future Canadian generations a reign of peace and prosperity instead of a chaos of anarchy and strife.

GREAT BRITAIN AND PARAGUAY.—The recent statement of Lord PALMERSTON in the House of Commons, on the relations of Great Britain and Paraguay, has allayed any apprehension of an outbreak of actual hostilities. The misunderstanding between the two Powers will not, in all probability, result in a more serious step than the withdrawal of the British Minister from Paraguay. It seems that the difficulty was occasioned by the unjustifiable imprisonment of a British subject, who was detained in confinement for a considerable time, and who was only released under the threat of a cruiser that, as an offset, a Paraguayan vessel, then at Buenos Ayres, should be seized and confiscated. The mere meditation of an act of such swift and arbitrary retribution appears to have brought the Paraguayan Government to its senses; and the victim, and the cause of the dispute, was immediately set free. We may, therefore, soon expect to hear that diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Paraguay have been renewed.

The example, here set, of making swift reprisals for wrongs inflicted by irresponsible Governments, is one from which the United States might learn a lesson. We have outstanding difficulties with almost every Spanish American State, and flagrant wrongs, inflicted upon American citizens, have been permitted to pass unpunished. France lately had a misunderstanding with Peru, and the presence of a man-of-war in the harbor of Callao had a wonderful effect in bringing about an immediate settlement. We have had, for many years, some very serious claims against the same Republic, but owing to the vacillation of the Government at Washington, and the lack of firmness displayed by its agents, the claims remain unadjusted. The American people are a very patient people; but they are now heartily sick of a Government that has no foreign policy, nor even sufficient strength or spirit to protect our citizens abroad.

NEW BRITISH MISSION TO THE UNITED STATES.—We learn from the English papers that Mr. W. S. LINDSAY, member of Parliament, has been authorized by his Government to proceed on a special mission to the United States. The object of Mr. LINDSAY'S visit is to promote an understanding between the two countries on maritime regulations and navigation laws. It will of course be the principal aim of the Envoy to obtain some modification in the American laws that refuse to open our coasting trade to foreign vessels. In this respect the mission of Mr. LINDSAY will hardly be successful. His representations, whatever they may be, will be received in a friendly spirit, and his arguments will obtain all the consideration that they merit; but the reasons upon which we have refused to throw open our coasting trade—so different to the coasting trade of all other nations—are too solid and too sound to be overturned by the representations of a foreign Power. Great Britain declares that she only demands reciprocity; but for our coasting trade she has nothing like an equivalent to give. In the other objects of Mr. LINDSAY'S mission he will probably be more successful. He is instructed to terminate, if possible, the disagreements that have existed with regard to belligerent rights at sea, and to obtain a more satisfactory adjustment of international laws on collisions. Both these matters are of great importance to the commercial and shipping interests of every maritime Power; and as Mr. LINDSAY is under instruction to visit France and other countries after he has concluded his visit to the United States, we trust that some general understanding will be arrived at, and some definite regulations established by the leading Powers of the world.

Minor Topics.

—The sages and philosophers of the Tribune office, having worked their way to what they no doubt consider a respectable height in public esteem, with truly philosophic prudence seem to be making arrangements for a safe and easy descent from that eminence to the level to which they evidently fear they must soon be brought. Yesterday afternoon, a large crowd collected in front of the establishment, and betrayed, by eager upward glances, an expectation of something unusual to happen within or upon that philanthropic pile. At precisely 4 o'clock, when the curiosity of the multitude had reached its height, a window was opened in the upper story of the building, and an iron crane swung therefrom, having a stout rope attached. The apparatus bore so close a resemblance to the gibbet on which traitors are hung, that its design was at once suspected among the spectators to be the capital punishment by strangulation of some political traitor within. The surprise of the throng may be "more easily described than imagined" when, instead of a white coat and soiled boots, encasing the retired partner of a "political firm," a small boy with a ragged jacket and no shoes, was thrust through the window and into the noose, which was not, however, placed about his neck, but under his arms, as in the case of the Paddy, who requested the Sheriff "not to fumble about his neck, as he was so ticklish there he'd die laughing." By an arrangement of wheels and gears attached to the crane, the small boy descended, at a comfortable rate of velocity, which he was enabled to regulate by the manipulation of a clasp about the rope held in his hand. This descent was followed by numerous other aspirants from the crowd ascending the stairs for that purpose, until the candidates for this sliding scale of honor became so numerous that the proprietor of the machine was compelled to refuse applicants, and so the exhibition closed. Of course there were skeptics, as usual, in the crowd, who did not believe that the apparatus had been provided to break the fall of politicians who have climbed too high. Some of these insisted that the whole thing was gotten up by the inventors of a new fire-escape, by which a person descending could regulate his own rate of speed. In support of this theory they referred to advertisements in the morning papers as corroborating their views, and their opinion was rendered somewhat plausible by the fact that the apparatus would really serve as an excellent fire-escape.

—Advices from Madeira bring us full accounts of the adventures in that lovely island of the Prince ALFRED of England, the younger brother of the Prince of Wales. There are, happily for this naval youth, more oranges than Orangemen in Madeira, and he has been enjoying himself, therefore, without let or hindrance. The Madeirans gave him a ball which they themselves found very delightful, as the tide of royal and noble travel towards their sunny shores, which had fallen off sadly of late, through the blight of their wines, rose again this past Winter with the troubles in Southern Italy. Two hundred and fifty "people of importance" assembled to greet the scion of British royalty, and rose when his rather abbreviated Highness entered the room to the air of "God Save the Queen." The little Prince, much to his credit, was horribly abashed at this, and cried out, "Oh, what shall I do? Do beg them all to sit down!" A scamper in the mountains and cricket-playing (H. R. H. getting a "duck's egg" twice) made up an entertainment so racy to the son of VICTORIA, that he promised the island the honor of a second visit on his way home. We opine his brother will hardly quit Canada in the same mood.

Amusements.

SHAKESPEARE in New-York, as of late years in London, seems to be altogether ruled by his old passion for East-Cheap. The West-end and Broadway theatres have surrendered him to Sadler's Wells and the Bowery. Mr. GEORGE WOOD, under whose management the Old Bowery has become one of the neatest, best-appointed and most agreeable of theatres, thoroughly appreciates this fact, and with the help of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. WALLACK, Jr., he has just put the "Winter's Tale" upon his stage in a very thorough and elaborate fashion. That some of his actors in their more inspired moments insist on straddling for sublimity is undeniable, and critical doctors may differ about the truth to nature and to Shakespeare of Mr. WALLACK'S Leontes, though none can deny the acrid intensity of the part as he renders it. But for the manager who has ventured upon the experiment of a Shakesperian revival in all the forms in the middle of September, let us have only praise, the more unstinted that the house nightly proves the sagacity as well as the spirit of his undertaking.

LAURA KEENE'S THEATRE.—This favorite establishment was crowded last night, and "a little over." The "little over" consisted of from some three to four hundred persons, curious to see the internal arrangements of the theatre, who, for want of room, will be compelled to call on another occasion. The circumstance which so resulted was the inauguration of the Fall and Winter season, and the first appearance of Miss LAURA KEENE, since her return from Europe.

Nor were the reopening of the theatre, and Miss KEENE'S reappearance, the only novelties. A new play, in five acts, adapted from the French by Mr. T. B. DE WALDEN, with wonderful accessories of scenic and general artistic display, was announced. All that was promised in these latter respects was realized. Miss KEENE has secured a very fine scenic artist. In the second act, especially, his work was great.

We wish we could say as much for the play itself. It was for a long time popular in Paris, at the Gaîté,—by no means a first-class theatre,—and was there known as "Le Petite Pologne," a title analogous to "The Old Brewery" in the Five Points. The designation which Mr. DE WALDEN has given to his version is "The Monkey Boy." Miss LAURA KEENE appeared in that character, and did it such justice as she could. Messrs. COULDOCK, DALY, BURNETT, T. B. JOHNSTON, PETERS, and Mrs. ALLEN, Miss POLLY MARSHALL, and Mrs. H. VINING also acted as effectively as their parts permitted. Of the plot or construction of the play there is little to be said. It will be materially improved by curtailment.

WINTER GARDEN.—The Fall season of this popular theatre commenced last night, with the engagement of Mr. and Mrs. BARNEY WILLIAMS. Their reception by a crowded house amounted to an ovation. And this, moreover, was entirely due to the fact that they were established favorites with the public, as the performances possessed no novelty, being "All Hollow Eve," "An Hour in Seville," and "The Rough Diamond." Mr. and Mrs. WILLIAMS will perform at the Winter Garden for two weeks, and will be succeeded by Miss CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN.

CORRUPTION AT WASHINGTON.

The Arrest of the Times Correspondent—Further Particulars of the De Groot Swindle.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Sept. 8, 1860.

The efforts of Secretary FLOYD and the lobbyists employed in the De Groot case, to clear themselves of the suspicion of having had your correspondent arrested, are truly commendable. The latter protest their innocence most solemnly, and declare that so soon as the news of the arrest reached them they dispatched one of the parties post haste to the magistrate's office, to see that bail was promptly obtained, and to furnish it if necessary! The friends of the Secretary are equally anxious to exonerate him from all blame in the premises, and argue, with a show of reason, that his political and social position forbid the idea that he would stoop to the employment of such an instrument of vengeance as the fellow STRONG, who swore to the affidavit. This disclaimer on the part of the Secretary and his friends may or may not be true, but it may be alleged, in vindication of their sincerity, that they could have no earthly desire to go into Court.

The Justice DONN, who issued the warrant, told me when brought before him, that he supposed, or understood, that the arrest was made at the instance of Secretary FLOYD; but he is now unable to say how he got the impression. Neither was he able to give me any definite information as to his authority for the issue of such a warrant. He believed that it was an old colonial statute of Maryland, of the year 1715, which I have not yet found. By referring to HAWKINS' Pleas of the Crown, and to BLACKSTONE, I find that a decision of the Star Chamber in the corrupt and tyrannical age of Queen ELIZABETH, was the real foundation of the legal maxim, that the public conduct of public functionaries, is to be shielded from the scrutiny of the Press, on the plea that the exposure of fraud and mal-administration, however accurate and true, tends to breaches of the peace, to mutiny and sedition, and must therefore be punished with fine and imprisonment, and even with death!

I stated in my last, that STRONG had been arrested recently for stealing DE GROOT'S papers, I ascertained that the papers alleged to have been stolen were not DE GROOT'S but STEARNS'; and that STRONG was actually arrested twice on this charge, on the information of STEARNS. This affair of honor, I am happy to say, has been amicably adjusted on terms mutually satisfactory, if not mutually honorable to the parties concerned. I also ascertained from Justice DONN, albeit he was by no means a willing witness in the case, nor in that above stated, that DE GROOT, the contractor for brick, whose case creates all the noise and excitement, was himself recently brought before the Justice on a warrant charging him with stealing papers of STRONG from the files of the Treasury Department! This affair of honor was likewise "compromised" and quashed, in a spirit of peace and brotherly love. But the question arises, whether a public informer has a right to "compromise" with a purloiner of the archives of the Government, even with the consent of the Justice who issues the warrant for the arrest. I have reason to know that this singular case has been brought to the notice of the Secretary of Treasury, and it remains to be seen whether he concedes to the Justices of the District of Columbia this great power, even in a case involving the restoration of harmony among brethren.

I have not been able to ascertain the nature of the "papers" alleged by STRONG to have been stolen by DE GROOT, or what effect they might have upon the claim of the latter. STRONG, it will be remembered, filed an injunction in the Treasury Department some ten days ago, when his interests were antagonistic to those of DE GROOT, and if the alleged theft was well founded, it is not supposable that the papers stolen from the Treasury Department contained matter calculated to promote DE GROOT'S claim. This affair should be thoroughly investigated, and the nature of the papers alleged to have been purloined by DE GROOT should be made known to the public. Enough has already been ventilated in regard to this case to compel a revision of it by the President, and to cause that Old Public Functionary to groan in spirit at the illustration it gives of the lamentable truth contained in his Fort du Quesne letter.

Your telegraphic correspondent "Q.," who gives the Departmental version of the De Groot case, says: "The official record shows several interesting facts. DE GROOT expended about $60,000 in cash in the execution of his contract, and was in actual possession of the property when the contract was canceled." On the first of these points the testimony of the Secretary of the Treasury, I presume, will be taken as authoritative, when the claim of all the parties was before Mr. COBB, including MECKLIN, ALEXANDER, DE GROOT and KELLOGG. (See Executive Document No. 85.) Mr. COBB in his award says: "The parties present an account of their expenditure in the preparation of the yard, which amounts to over $100,000, whilst their own witnesses prove that it ought not to have cost them $25,000. I can see no good reason for allowing them the $75,000 (the difference between the two amounts) which was evidently the result of their own bad management." This is Mr. COBB'S official statement of the case. In my letter published in the TIMES on the 1st of September I fully explained Mr. COBB'S mode of settling the amount of damages. Four persons examined the brickyard, in order to estimate its value. The two friends of the claimants state the value of the investment at $21,062 43. Two others, on the part of the Government, estimate them respectively at $9,862 93 and $13,200. Mr. COBB put these four estimates of four persons together, and took the average by dividing by four. The result was $16,296 94. So much for this allegation. I may add, that MECKLIN and ALEXANDER, the sureties, while consenting to sign the statement, wrote to the Secretary of the Treasury that they knew nothing of the facts and items of the account.

As to the statement that DE GROOT was in actual possession of the property when the contract was canceled, I hope to be able shortly to publish the letter of MECHLIN and ALEXANDER, in which they cancel their sub-contract with DE GROOT, in consequence of his failure to perform its conditions. But the fact is notorious that KELLOGG held possession of the property from 3d March, 1856, until the surrender was made to the Government in 1857. DE GROOT was permitted to join MECHLIN, ALEXANDER and KELLOGG, in the surrender, simply as a matter of form, on account of the mutual losses sustained; and he came in for about a fourth part of Mr. COBB'S award, made Jan. 11, 1858, which I have quoted above.

I feel that I have no right to occupy your columns in defence of myself; but I will say briefly that the insinuation or assertion, contained in the Herald's telegraphic dispatch of Friday, that I am or have ever been engaged in lobbying claims through Congress, or before the Department, is a base falsehood, which the anonymous knave knew to be such when he penned it. The Imperial Visit to Nice—Napoleon's Work on Julius Cæsar—Belly and the Isthmus Canal—Richard Cobden and American Journalism—Miscellaneous News.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Paris, Thursday, Aug. 23, 1860.

The long talked-of visit of the Emperor and Empress to their new southern possessions of Savoy and Nice commenced this morning, and promises to be a sort of triumphal march from beginning to end. Their Majesties will go by the way of Lyons to Chambery in Savoy; from there they go to Mont Blanc and ascend to the Mer de Glace; returning to Chambery, they continue their voyage to Nice by Grenoble, Toulon and Marseilles. From Nice they cross to Algiers; from whence the Emperor alone will take a two days' excursion through the colony, sleeping one night at Constantine. Recrossing the Mediterranean to Marseilles, their Majesties will either return to Paris or go to some watering place, according to the condition of political affairs at Paris and elsewhere. The journey will last from three to four weeks. At every point at which their Majesties stay over night, there will be a reception, with speeches from the local authorities and the ecclesiastics, and a ball. The latter, it will be understood, are given for the benefit of the Empress, or rather for the benefit of those who will be admitted to the balls, for the rage to see Her Majesty, especially in the toilette which shows her charms to the greatest advantage, remains as great to-day as at the epoch of her marriage. The Prince Imperial remains at St. Cloud, and Marshal Vaillant, now out of employ, is charged with the keeping of the boy, and the general direction of the Government.

The history of great men has rebounds, like cannon balls, in the memory of posterity. Some time ago, a series of brilliant feuilletons in the Presse, from the pen of M. Lamartine, awakened one of these poroxysms of admiration for Julius Cæsar. These were followed by the work of M. Ampere, of the French Academy, entitled Histoire dans Rome, and by a series of pictures from the great artists on the life of Cæsar. The work of M. Ampere especially contained appreciations of Cæsar which were loudly contested by his admirers, and by none more than by the Emperor Napoleon III. His Majesty, on reading the book, exclaimed, "I am going to write the history of Julius Cæsar!" and he has kept his word. In this work His Majesty will give to the world his own appreciation of the character of Cæsar; but in order that the work shall be irreproachable on the question of facts, we are now informed that he has consulted frequently M. Troplong, President of the Senate, and M. De Saulcy, member of the Institute, gentlemen thoroughly read in Roman History. He has also sent to Rome, to explore the secrets of the Vatican, M. Jacobs, one of the writers in the Reveu des Deux Mondes, and M. Desjardins, Professor at the University, author of a History of the Republic of San Marino. The reader need not be told how great is the anxiety of the literary world for the appearance of this imperial history, nor how overjoyed is the publisher at the prospects of his speculation. The book will appear this Winter, and the critics, it is said, will be allowed to speak their opinions without restraint.

M. Felix Belly, of Nicaragua memory, is publishing in numbers in the Revue des Deux Mondes, a lengthy history of his interoceanic canal scheme, entitled "The American Isthmus Question, an Episode in the History of the Present Epoch, by Felix Belly." The article is so lengthy and labors so hard to convince the reader of the glory acquired by the writer in his enterprise, that in comparison to the work actually accomplished in Central America, one cannot avoid the reflection that the scheme was projected in order to give occasion for the article that was to follow.

The same number of the Revue des Deux Mondes contains a lengthy and kind review of Leslie's Autobiography, just published, from the pen of M. Forgues.

You will have seen a letter from Mr. Richard Cobden, Member of Parliament, condemning the conduct of a correspondent of an American paper in publishing the substance of a conversation held by him at the late Fourth of July celebration in this city. In this letter Mr. Cobden says: "The paragraph you inclosed giving a conversation of mine is one of those rascally acts of eavesdropping for which American newspaper writers are so notorious." I refer to this matter here in order to let the public know that the eavesdropper in question was an Englishman who never saw America in his life. Whatever may have been the culpability of the journal in publishing so purely a private conversation, the very grave slur of Mr. Cobden on the American Press is much mitigated by the fact that the writer in question is an Englishman.

In the short notice which I gave you, some weeks ago, of M. Verard's telegraph, by India and Behring's Straits, to San Francisco and New-York, I stated that the French Legislature had voted a subsidy to the line for fifty years; but this was a mistake. The subsidy was voted to a submarine line across the Atlantic, touching at the Cape de Verde Islands and Newfoundland—a Company formed by Messrs. Cubitt, Curtis, and others. If we are to judge by the first transatlantic line, this latter project is much less practicable than that of M. Verard. So, too, the subsidy is only paid on condition that the line is uninterrupted in its operation for fifty years.

I see that you have just had a change in the mode of distribution of letters within the City of New-York; that is to say, the private enterprise is suppressed to give place to the Government. At the same time it is announced that four distributions will take place daily. A word here, on the manner in which the same service is performed in Paris, may be found of interest. To begin with, a Frenchman would find difficulty in comprehending how a Company could ever for a moment compete with the Government in the regularity and fidelity of such a service. In Paris, the proposition to substitute a private company for the Government would be regarded as simply absurd, for, as at present organized, the system is absolutely perfect, if there be any perfection in this world; and we do not hear from French people, who understand the system, a word of complaint from one year's end to the other. Here we have six deliveries a day, commencing at 8 o'clock in the morning and terminating at 8 o'clock in the evening—the deliveries being about every two hours. The postmen, who wear a plain uniform, and carry their letters and papers in a flat box swung in front of them, are carried to their different routes by large omnibuses, drawn by strong and swift horses. These omnibuses are marked Administration des Postes. Each one has its route marked out, they travel with great rapidity, and never stop to let down or pick up the postmen; so that it is impossible for old men, or for any other than active men, to be engaged in the service. All letters are carried to the General Post-office, and there they are stamped with the district, box, and the hour of starting out for distribution, so as to serve as a check on the carriers and insure their delivery within the prescribed time. Letters are two sous (or cents) within the city limits when prepaid, three sous unpaid. At the General Post-office in Paris there are no boxes for the public; the deliveries through the city are so frequent and reliable that there is no need of the public having any communication with the Post-office. There are two sorts of boxes for depositing letters throughout the city: the large ward offices, where money is received and sent, and where the mails are made up at the last moment for the railway trains; and the small boxes at the tobacconists' and grocers', distributed every two or three blocks, for the greater convenience of the general public.

A new treaty has just been passed, between the municipality of Paris and the General Company of omnibuses, by which they are allowed to increase the number of lines, and the number of vehicles. The number of lines by this new arrangement will be 31, the number of vehicles 500, the price of each voyage, which varies from two to seven miles, remains at 6 cents as heretofore. Each omnibus averages 78 francs per day, and the dividends of the company are so large that in the new treaty, the city reclaims for the future a half of all sums over 70 francs on the share.

Two American ships have just arrived at Havre the James Bogert and another, with more than 22,000 sacks of wheat on board for the French Government. These ships and their cargoes are generally noticed for several reasons: They are the first that have entered the new dock at Havre, a fact of special interest to the people of Havre; they are the first that have brought wheat over this year in any considerable quantity, and thus mark the commencement of that trade for the year; and they suggest to the French people the melancholy fact (of which they had no need, however, in presence of the continued rain and cold weather,) that they are going to have a short crop in France, and a consequent augmentation in price of the article which is the poor man's only food.

The old cathedral of Notre-Dame was robbed two nights ago of the precious objects used in worship, and made mostly of gold and precious stones. The thieves entered by climbing a scaffolding used by the workmen in the restoration of the southern end of the transept, and by breaking a hole through the stained-glass window, effected an entrance. This offence was formerly punished by death in France, but now only by imprisonment for life. The thieves left at the window one of the most precious of the objects, because too large to pass the aperture, and some of the others, but not all, were dropped in fright. The thieves have not yet been detected.

LONDON NEWS.

Recruiting for Garibaldi—Storming an Abode of Love—Mr. Spurgeon—Prince Galtizin's Concerts—Miscellaneous News.

From Our Own Correspondent.

London, Saturday, Aug. 25, 1860.

It is the present fashion in England to sympathize with Garibaldi; it is "respectable" to applaud the "Liberator." The Times has called him "the Washington of Italy," commencing an article with these words. Lady Palmerston has subscribed to a Garibaldi Fund, and so has Mrs. Gladstone; and when Lord Palmerston was called upon the other night by Mr. Hennessey, in the House, to give some explanation about Capt. Styles and his mission hither to collect British volunteers for Garibaldi, his Lordship only laughed, and intimated that they were "excursionists," for aught he knew, going on a pleasure trip to see what Mount Etna is doing. But in spite of all this, somehow the money is not forthcoming. I do not hear of large sums being collected. Is this the fault of the representatives of Garibaldi in this country? I rather imagine that it is. The conduct of Mr. Ashurst towards Capt. Styles was simply monstrous; and since then what has he done? Again, I question whether the heart of the British aristocracy and gentry is really with Garibaldi. There was a public meeting convened on Thursday last, at 2 o'clock, at the London Tavern, by a body of Common Councilmen and tradesmen. These gentlemen took the trouble to send a deputation to the House of Commons to get personal support from the members, many of whom, and especially all the metropolitan members, they separately and distinctively invited to the meeting. Not one came. None sent any money, and only Sir James Duke and Sir Charles Napier wrote letters to be read. There is not enough of quackery and cant about Garibaldi to elicit the active sympathies of the pseudo-religious world; or else, as I said, the money part of the business is very badly administered. Since the departure of Capt. Styles in search of Garibaldi, to tell him that he must have the means to equip and embark the "excursionists," a few feeble advertisements have announced that £3,300 are wanted for a "special purpose," and that Mr. Ashurst and one or two other gentlemen are ready to receive subscriptions. As for the "Volunteers" they are plentiful and of the best sort. Captain Styles' representative, Capt. Minchin, in full Garibaldian uniform, looks one of the finest figure-heads of an expedition that fancy can portray. He is six feet two inches in height, with shoulders like those of Atlas, bronzed, black-bearded and resolute, apparently every inch a soldier. A mysterious Countess of a certain age, hovers round the head-quarters of the "excursionists," and has promised arms and equipment for 100 men. Poems printed in red and green ink, are showered by the bushel on the brave contingent. Swarthy Italians, friends and spies, talk incessantly in the office for enrolment, mixed with Englishmen, who are incessantly talking of revolvers and breech-loaders, and all new-fangled implements of war. Among the volunteers will go a real English nobleman under a feigned name, which I do not think it fair to divulge. He is busy in having cannon rifled at his own expense. Then the Distin family give their offering in the shape of bugles; and Heaven knows what other contributions, appropriate or not, will be lavished with a hearty "God speed" on the excursionists, who are going not only to Etna, but Vesuvius, and who may even visit St. Peter's at Rome, and the Rialto at Venice, before they return. Sir George Bowyer, M. P., was on his legs last night, denouncing Garibaldi and all concerned with him, in the true ultramontane spirit; but it would not do. The House heard him politely, for the honorable member for the Vatican is much liked for his urbanity and suavity in that assembly; but Palmerston shut him up with cool pity, and answered his "dismal vaticinations" with polite contempt. A Mr. George Crawshay, the Mayor of Gateshead, a thorough disciple of Mr. Urquhart, attempted, some days since, to bring the law to bear against Baxter Langley, formerly manager of the Morning Star, Bright's organ, and now editor of a newspaper in the north, for aiding and abetting Styles in his alleged infringement of the Foreign Enlistment act; but the magistrates would not interfere, and so Mr. Crawshay threatened an appeal to a superior Court. I hope Capt. Styles may return very shortly, and that the excursion may not be delayed; not but that Etna and Vesuvius will keep, but other things may not. The following is the "card" of the excursion, and subjoined is the circular answer to querists in the country who want to see the Sicilian elephant, and are anxious for particulars as to conditions, &c.:

"Garibaldi Excursion to South Italy.—A select party of English excursionists intend to visit South Italy. As the country is somewhat unsettled, the excursionists will be furnished with means of self-defence, and, with a view of recognizing each other, will be attired in a picturesque and uniform costume. Gen. Garibaldi has liberally granted the excursionists a free passage to Sicily and Italy, and they will be supplied with refreshments and attire suitable for the climate. Information to be obtained at Capt. Edward Styles' offices, No. 8 Salisbury-street, Strand, London, W. C."

There has been a siege in England. The Agapemone has been stormed. A Mr. Price wished to recover his wife, who was, and probably still is, a deluded inmate of that establishment. Mr. Price was formerly there himself; but it would appear he was disenchanted, whilst his wife still clings to the "brethren." Consequently the ex-Agapemonite assembled his friends, and the lady without price was demanded. On a former occasion Mr. Price went in search of his better-half, and found her in an arbor in the gardens of felicity. She screamed out for aid, and the licentious elders came to her rescue. The last time, the garrison was carried by assault, and a lusty "brother" presented a pistol, which led to a similar act on the part of an indignant besieger. Matters looked serious, when a parley took place, and the inhabitants of the "Abode of Love" agreed to a search, a reasonable time being allowed for the ladies to get ready to receive visitors. What changes of apartments that proceeding may have involved, this deponent, not having penetrated the mysteries of that modern Temple of Isis, cannot say. Most probably Mrs. Price was let out by a secret postern gate; for she was not found in the flesh on the premises, and was supposed to have migrated to a farm-house at some little distance. The husband and his friends consulted and agreed to give up the search for that night, and the raid was abandoned. But, if it should be repeated, and Brother Prince should be ducked in a horse-pond, few will commiserate him, on account of the sainted catarrh which he may catch. Brother Prince is a Joe Smith on a small and unambitious scale. He is content with a four-in-hand, a fine breed of blood-hounds, and a select harem of other men's wives. There is a good deal to be said about all this on both sides, in a free country; but I rather fancy now, that the blood of the neighboring rustics is aroused, and if he be no cautious a martyrdom may await Brother Prince, not unlike that which befel the Mormonite Prophet. Had a shot been fired the other night, I question whether the Agapemone would have been left standing where it is.

[Rev. Mr. Spurgeon has opened his chapel with a very interesting and characteristic account of his recent travels. £8,000 were wanting to complete the Tabernacle and for current expenses; and he said he would not speak until £1,000 should be collected. Nearly that amount was subscribed before he did speak, and £1,050 was given. A single anonymous contribution of £50 was among those received. I inclose a report of part of the effective and humorous address of this extraordinary preacher.

I went the other evening to the monster promenade concert in the Floral Hall, led by Mr. Alfred Mellon, and his Highness, Prince Galitzin. Fancy a Russian Prince leading a shilling concert orchestra, and flourishing the bâton to his own compositions. Prince Galitzin is a very stout and apparently powerful man of about forty years of age. He was buttoned up to the throat, and wore an extensive white tie. He has a strong look of poor Jullien, and seemed as he held his chin up in the air and gazed about him, like a quarto edition of that popular but ill-fated maëstro, supposing the latter to be on the duodecimo scale. Somehow the Prince seemed buttoned uncomfortably tight. A young lady near me said that he wore stays, and I think it possible. He did not look as if he could have stooped to avenge himself, had a small, bullet-headed boy run at him like a young catapult and abstracted his gold repeater. The Prince's portrait, which is to be seen at all the music-sellers, runs into the opposite extreme. He looks in that as if he were rising from a French bedstead after sleeping without a night-dress, and had snatched the counterpane wherewith to drape his magnificent person. His polkas, waltzes and mazourkas were extremely Jullianesque, but on a diminished scale of excellence, just in the inverse ratio of proportion to the personal and physical attributes of the composers. Who and what is Prince Galitzin? He is liberal in his tendencies, since he gave a concert for Garibaldi, which brought in a minus amount in the way of contribution. Moreover, he dedicates a polka to Herzen, the distinguished Russian liberal, painter and publicist. Altogether, to me, although I have realized his noble presence, both by eye and ear, Prince Galitzin is as great a myth, anomaly and puzzle as a thunder-storm in top-boots, or the clerk to the bank of deposit of a pterodactylon before the flood. I don't know what he is, whence he came, or whither he is going. (I should think to Barnum and glory.) I don't know his habits, (save that tight dress black coat,) his resources, (save a portion of my shilling paid at the door to see and hear a Russian Prince leade a cheap British orchestra for the million.) I don't know what he is, or what he means. I can't classify him; but I will ask Herzen. In the meanwhile, the worst I wish him is that he may continue to flourish his baton without tearing his coat. What do you think of the following?

Mrs. Colonel Wildman, of Newstead, a day or two ago, presented a number of articles, formerly the property of Lord Byron, to the Museum of the Nottingham Naturalists' Society. Among these were the lasts upon which his Lordship's boots and shoes were made. The lasts are about nine inches long, narrow, high at the instep, and generally of symmetrical shape. They were accompanied by the following affirmation from William Swift, shoemaker, who made his Lordship's boots and shoes from 1803 to 1807. Swift is still alive, and continues to reside at Southwell. His certificate as to the genuineness of the lasts and the nature of Lord Byron's deformity, regarding which there have been so many contradictory statements, is as follows: "William Swift, boot and shoe maker, Southwell, Notts, having had the honor of working for Lord Byron, whilst living at Southwell, from the year 1805 to 1807, affirms that these are the lasts upon which his Lordship's boots and shoes were made, and that the last pair were made on the 16th day of May, 1807. He further says that his Lordship had not a club foot, as is generally stated, but that it was formed the same as the other, except being exactly an inch and a half shorter. The malformation was in the ancle, which was very weak, consequently the foot turned outwards. To remedy this, his Lordship wore a very thin boot, tightly laced under his stocking. In his early life he wore an iron, with a joint at the ancle, which passed down the outside of the leg, and was fastened to the sole of the shoe. The calf of that leg was much smaller. It was the left leg. (Signed) Wm. Swift."

I think it is disgusting, as was the conduct of Byron's "friend"—(what friends he had!)—I forget the fellow's name, who lately published his reminiscences of the bard, and who under the pretence of taking a farewell of his corpse, induced his faithful servant to leave him in the chamber of death alone, in order that he might violate its sanctity by lifting the shroud and peeping at the feet of the deceased!

THE LAST SLAVER—A SINGULAR TRANSACTION.

Correspondence of the New-Orleans Crescent.

Key West, Aug. 27, 1860.

On the morning of the 19th the United States steamer Crusader came into port, with her surgeon, Dr. Drane, very sick with pleurisy. Quarters were obtained ashore for him, and he is improving. By her I learn of the capture of a brig, name not known, and twenty men, on the 14th inst., off Cape Marze. She was placed in charge of Lieut. Jouett and twelve men and six marines. The crew numbered eighteen. Their story is that the brig, a Spanish vessel, sailed for the coast, and on arriving, the supercargo took with him the amount of gold, $50,000, to buy the slaves, but did not succeed, and the brig, being chased by a British cruiser, concluded to return to Neuvitas.

Two Spaniards came on here in the steamer Salvo, on the 13th inst., and were pursued by three others, who arrived in the schooner Wye, on the 16th, on the charge of stealing $1,100. The magistrate committed them to jail. This little incident gave rise to quite an interesting discussion of international law, treaty reciprocity and extradition. The storm, which bid fair to convulse our peaceful relations with Spain, subsided, however, and the men were discharged from prison, whilst the prisoners returned, minus their money. This happy asylum for the oppressed of all nations introduces us to the acquaintance of some very strange characters.

The crew of the prize-brig have been up before the Commissioner and discharged. This is as it should be, there being really no charge of a substantial character against them; besides, our jail is small, only intended for domestic rascals, and thus to be forced to accomodate scamps from abroad would neither advance the comfort of present or newly-introduced persons.

Naval Intelligence.

The United States frigate Congress, L. M. Goldsborough, sailed from Maldonado July 19, for St. Catharines and Rio Janeiro. The United States brig Dolphin, Chas. Stedman, Commander,, was still at Buenos Ayres July 25. The United States steamer Puloski, Capt. W. H. Macomb, sailed from Montevideo 25th July for Paraguay.

Fair of the American Institute.—The exhibition this year will be mainly confined to agricultural and horticultural products,—or to such articles as may properly be considered as pertaining to the pursuits of country life. Hence bees, birds, and fishes, as well as flowers and fruits, are challenged for competition. The Fair opens at Palace Garden, Fourteenth-street, on the 24th inst.

1850—1860.

In concluding the tenth year of their successful business enterprise. BAKER & GODWIN, PRINTERS, TRIBUNE BUILDINGS, feel impelled to acknowledge the very generous patronage extended to them through all the changes of the past decade of years. Beginning business with limited resources—their entire establishment being confined to one floor, with but a single power press—they have been compelled, year after year, to extend their premises and increase their presses, till at the expiration of the tenth year they possess an establishment which, for Extent, Number of Presses, Variety of Type, and General Completeness, is equaled by few, and excelled by none, in facilities for the Neat and Rapid Execution of Every Description of NEWSPAPER, BOOK, JOB and CARD PRINTING.

Their career has not at any time been checked by Opposition, Competition, or Financial Crises. Pursuing "the even tenor of their way"—minding their own business, and letting that of others alone, (and this, by the way, is a secret not yet known to some,) they have been enabled to secure and retain a larger number of patrons, probably, than any other similar establishment.

Aiming always to please their patrons by giving close, personal attention to their orders, and making Promptness, Good Work and Fair Prices, the rule of their business, the subscribers have the best reasons for believing that success is certain where men are in earnest, and entirely devoted to their calling.

Proud of the Profession in which they have each been engaged as Apprentices, Journeymen, Foremen and Employers, for more than a quarter of a century, the subscribers assure their old patrons and the public that they are as ambitious as ever to sustain the reputation of their House for Enterprise, Fair-Dealing and Good Work; and they are determined to spare no pains to still further advance the character of the Art to which they have been so long and so successfully devoted.

GENTLEMEN'S FALL STYLE OF HATS
NOW READY.

Smooth Names to the Uninitiated.
A TRICK OF THE SEWING MACHINE TRADE.
To advertise Rotary Hook Leather Pad Machines, and Shuttle Machines, as "Lock-stitch" Machines. Their stitches are neither locked, fastened at the ends nor elastic. There is but one Sewing Machine stitch in use (the Grover & Baker) which is locked, fastened at the ends, elastic, and made direct from two spools, without winding, and the people are finding it out.

Mr. Howe's Sewing-Machine Patent is extended for 7 years! The fact is, the value of Mr. HOWE'S invention, as exhibited in the new GROVER & BAKER FAMILY SEWING-MACHINE was an unanswerable argument for the extension. No one who has seen THE GROVER & BAKER in the family, changing toil into pastime and work into play, can doubt the propriety of this extension.

Strangers in the City, who wish to supply themselves or Boys with Fall and Winter Clothing, are invited to examine our very large and desirable assortment before purchasing.

DR. J. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.—THESE Bitters are universally acknowledged to be a sure preventive and cure for fever and ague, flatulence, heaviness of the stomach, or any other like affection. Their effect upon the system is most miraculous; they give a healthy tone to the system, remove all morbid matter, and in fact thoroughly cleanse the system of all impurities. The proprietors, in presenting this preparation to the public, assure them that in no single case, when it has been used according to their directions, has it been known to fail, but, on the contrary, new virtues have been found in its use. To those afflicted with any of the above ills of the body, the "Bitters" are offered as a speedy and certain cure. Try them and form your own opinion.
For sale by druggists and dealers generally everywhere.

The eighty-sixth session of this Institute will open Sept. 12. The Institute stages, connecting with the principal ferries and distant sections of the City, will convey pupils to and from the school on the same terms as heretofore.

The new buildings, occupying the summit of Murray Hill, cannot be surpassed in the City for high, healthy location and commanding prospect. The internal arrangements are especially adapted to all the requirements of such an institution.

No expense has been spared to render the appointments for every branch of instruction, as well as for exercise and recreation, all that a sensible regard for usefulness, comfort and refined taste required. The different departments are accommodated in spacious class-rooms, with the most approved arrangements for warming and ventilation. There is added a large and convenient chemical laboratory; a chapel, which, for beauty of design and as an auditorium, is, in proportion to its size, one of the most attractive assembly-rooms in New-York; and a handsome picture and painting gallery, constructed and lighted under the supervision of some of the best artistic talent in the City.

With these necessary adjuncts to a thorough education, this Institute is prepared with experienced teachers and accomplished professors to give a sensible, practical, and thorough course of instruction—beginning with the youngest pupils in their alphabet, grounding them well in reading, spelling, writing and arithmetic, and carrying them steadily along through the various stages to graduation. This course embraces three departments, subdivided into three divisions each, making nine classes in regular gradation, admitting the introduction of any pupil to a grade suited to her age and advancement, and supplying all the educational requirements for the mind and the heart from early infancy to maturity, as many graduates can testify who have entered this Institute in their infant years, pursued the entire course through the different departments, and graduated eminently fitted for the duties and responsibilities of life.

All the Lines of City cars and stages which pass 42d-st., also the Hudson and Harlem Railroad cars, are available for access to the Institute, which is located on the corner of 42d-st. and 5th-av. One of the Institute stages will connect with the nearest Hudson Railroad station for the accommodation of pupils coming to the City by that conveyance.

LADIES' ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

MR. & MRS. APTOMMAS'
NEW ESTABLISHMENT,
(CONDUCTED UPON THE PRINCIPLES OF A PRIVATE EUROPEAN FAMILY,)
EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE ACQUIREMENT OF ACCOMPLISHMENTS, AND ALSO TO AFFORD THOSE WHO VISIT NEW-YORK FOR A LIMITED SPACE OF TIME A HOME,
Where they may pursue their studies under eminent artists at their option, without being subjected to the ordinary rules and restrictions of boarding-schools.

Mr. APTOMMAS' extensive teaching experience in London, Paris and New-York, &c., has convinced him of the utter impossibility of attaining more than the initiatory steps to accomplishments during the period of school days, which is specially devoted to the culture of the mind; therefore, it is when the practical part of education has been dispensed with, that the moment arrives for the cultivation of taste and the appreciation of the beauties of art; and then only is it that an adequate proportion of time and attention can be bestowed upon them, which, from the multiplicity of the objects of pursuit, could not before have been done.

It is proverbially true that three-fourths of the ASPIRANTS FOR ACCOMPLISHMENTS ARE DISSATISFIED WITH THEIR ATTAINMENTS, notwithstanding that much time and tuition may have been consumed in the attempt. The main cause does not lie in the want of ability in the master, but in their IMPERFECT METHOD OF STUDYING, by which the instructions received are rendered of no practical benefit. To remove so formidable an impediment is one of the most prominent features of this establishment. The practicing being conducted under the strict surveillance of the Principal, every lesson is effectually learned, and a rapid progress the inevitable result. The admirable
SYSTEM OF EVERY-DAY LESSONS,
(fifty in the quarter,)
IS ADOPTED AS THE MOST EFFECTIVE PLAN OF TEACHING.

In addition to the numerous entertainments in the City for the development of taste, a series of
SOIREES AND MATINEES,
OF A HIGH ORDER, WILL BE GIVEN DURING EACH SEASON.

The assistance of the most talented artists has been secured for the Harp, Piano-forte, Singing, Organ, Guitar, Languages, Oil Painting, Water Color, Drawing, Harmony and Composition, Belles Lettres, Wax Flowers, Modeling, Tapestry and Fancy Work, Phonography, &c.

THE DOMESTIC ARRANGEMENTS are made with strict regard to the sanctity and comfort of home.

The residence is delightfully situated on Murray Hill, and convenient to all the principal avenues.

For further particulars, apply to Mr. APTOMMAS, No. 114 West 39th-st., near Broadway.

MAGNIN'S LUCINA CORDIAL, OR ELIXIR OF LOVE.—This delightful and positive invigorant of the human system is fast superseding all other remedies; in fact when its virtues become fully known it will be the only remedy in use. Its action on the nervous system and reproductive organs is most extraordinary, allaying all over-excitement, and infusing into the nervous organization that degree of tension which is requisite to give the human system the enjoyment of its full powers, both mentally and physically. As an appetizer it is equally remarkable; assimilated with the gastric juices of the stomach, it assists them in more readily dissolving all nutritious substances, and converting them into pure and wholesome blood; thus the digestion is improved, and the whole framework of man moves on in a more vigorous and harmonious manner thereby. Price $3 per bottle, or two bottles for $5. Principal office No. 203 Fulton-st., New-York.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.
SPECIAL NOTICE.

A throng of applicants having presented themselves, requesting me to procure for them orchestra chairs upon the appearance and first week of Mr. Forrest, and being desirous to give all a fair and equal chance, I have concluded that 250 of the desired orchestra seats only shall be sold in the vestibule of the theatre, at public auction, at the same time with the private boxes, by the celebrated auctioneer, Henry H. Leeds, at 3½ o'clock, Sept. 13. The remainder of the vast auditorium will be open to the public at the usual prices, viz.: Family Circle, 25 cents; Parquet and Dress Circle, 50 cents. In not raising the prices, as generally advised, I have been induced by a desire that the masses should have to pay no more than usual to see the renowned tragedian. I have, furthermore, determined that during Mr. Forrest's engagement, and at all times, ticket speculators shall be excluded from the theatre and its vicinity. I do not intend my patrons shall be imposed upon in any way I can prevent, and I hereby warn all from buying tickets except at the office. That the public may not be inconvenienced by the rush at the box-office, a certain number of tickets only will be sold each night, and in such numbers as will prevent any extensive individual crowds arriving at the same time.

In catering for the great reappearance of Mr. Forrest before the public, I am kindly aided by Mr. Niblo, who has generously given me the use of his own private box for disposal.

JAS. M. NIXON.

HELP THE NEEDY.
THE CHILDREN OF THE FIVE POINTS AT PALACE GARDEN.

Mr. C. A. DE FORREST, the proprietor of Palace Garden in 14th-st. and 6th-av., having kindly given the use of that celebrated place of resort free, to the "Five Points House of Industry," the children of that institution will hold a pic-nic there on WEDNESDAY, the 12th inst., during the entire day.

Public services will commence at 3 o'clock, P. M., in the Concert Hall of the Garden.

Several new and beautiful songs and declamation by the children.

Mr. Bacon, who is engaged in the Sunday-school of the Institution, will present, for the amusement of the children, a variety of pleasing experiments in chemistry, philosophy and natural magic, and scenes in ventriloquism.

We hope to have one or two friends present able to make some interesting remarks.

As Mr. De Forrest has made so liberal an offer, it is hoped that our friends will deem this a good opportunity to aid the Treasury of the Institution.

Admission—Adults, 25 cents; Children, 15 cents.

In case it should be stormy on Wednesday, the Pic-nic will be held on the next fair day.

ONE DAY LATER FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Bohemian at Father Point.

IMPORTANT RUMORS FROM NAPLES.

The King Advised by his Generals to Leave the City.

The Great Eastern Coming Again to New-York.

FATHER POINT, Monday, Sept. 10.

The steamship Bohemian, from Liverpool, on the 30th of August, via Londonderry on the 31st, passed this point this evening. Her dates are one day later than those already received.

The steamship Arago, from New-York, arrived at Southampton on the 30th ult.

The steamship Kangaroo, from New-York, arrived at Liverpool on the 30th ultimo.

The political news by the Bohemian is unimportant.

The Paris correspondent of the London Post telegraphs that it does not appear that the proposal to make the city of Naples neutral ground has the slightest chance of success. We may hear any day that GARIBALDI has entered Naples and the King has quitted it.

Arrangements are being expedited for the resusitation of the Royal American Steamship Company in connection with the Galway contract.

The Herald says that the principal discount establishments are using every endeavor to eradicate the accommodation system, and that in all cases where the slightest suspicion exists, such paper is at once rejected.

Emigration from the port of London to the Australian Colonies is said to be rather quiet.

The Coventry strike was at an end, and the weavers after suffering severe privations, had agreed to accept of the terms of their employers.

HOPELY, the school-master who is undergoing his sentence for killing one of his pupils, has issued a pamphlet which the Post describes as marked by odious and insufferable egotism.

The Times city article, of Thursday evening, says: "The weather is comparatively favorable. The English funds, to-day, have been steadily maintained at previous quotations. The closing prices of Consols on the London Stock Exchange was 93@93⅛ for money and 93⅛ for account, and the Three ₱ Cents. 93¼@93⅜."

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH TO LONDONDERRY.

GENOA, Wednesday, Aug. 29.

The Genoese journals of to-day, publish the following: "The Antheon, which left Naples yesterday morning, brings the news, that on Monday last, the Neapolitan Generals, assembled in Council, had, with the exception only of Gen. BISCO, unanimously resolved to advise the King to take his departure from the city."

At the moment of the departure of the Antheon, a report was current at Naples that the officers of the army and navy had tendered their resignations en masse to the King.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 31.

The Times Paris correspondent of Wednesday evening says that Signor FARINI, who went to compliment the Emperor on the occasion of his first visit to the transferred Provinces, presented an autograph letter from the King of Sardinia, in which VICTOR EMANUEL declared that it was impossible for him any longer to resist the current of public feeling in Italy; that he must either lead or be swept away by it.

The Post says that the Neapolitan Government has proposed to Mr. DE VILLAWARD to offer to GARIBALDI as neutral the Territory of Naples, to prevent the effusion of blood in the capital.

The Daily News says that it is reported that according to a banker's dispatch received late this afternoon, there is a fall off of ten per cent. in the Neapolitan funds.

The Great Eastern, after being gridironed at Milford Haven, will leave for New-York Oct. 17.

Sir WM. ARMSTRONG writes to the Times, to state that he has not tendered his resignation to the Government. He says that although his engagement with the Government is for years, he has no intention of holding the office longer than his services may be required for perfecting the system of artillery which he has been the means of introducing.

The Times' Paris correspondent remarks that the demand of the French Government for satisfaction from Naples on account of the recent outrage on the French Ambassador, cannot be viewed otherwise than as a lift to GARIBALDI and the revolution.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

The Proposed Democratic Fusion Knocked Higher than a Kite, and the "Rising Statesman" Effectually Squelched.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Sept. 10.

The Douglas Central Committee and every friend of DOUGLAS here repudiate the idea of fusion in New-York. Hon. MILES TAYLOR has written to New-York protesting against fusion; so has Senator DOUGLAS himself. Hon. HERSCHEL V. JOHNSON passed through here this afternoon, en route for New-York, and will in person resist the proposed arrangement for fusion. It is said that such a step would lose the ticket ten votes where it would add one.

Col. A. M. BARBOUR, Superintendent of the Harper's Ferry Armory, was permitted to-day to resign to avoid removal. He is a Douglas Elector in Virginia, and his dismissal, it is said, will lose BRECKINRIDGE five thousand votes in the State.

The Fusion Movement Repudiated by the Douglas Leaders.

Special Dispatch to the New York Times.

ALBANY, Monday, Sept. 10.

RICHMOND and CAGGER, who are here, repudiate unqualifiedly the proposed bargain of BEN WOOD with the Breckinridge Committee. There will be no fusion.

H.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

ALBANY, Monday, Sept. 10.

The rumor of the proposed union by giving the Breckinridge men ten Electors and two State officers, circulated this morning, caused a great flutter amongst politicians. A large majority of the Douglas State Committee is understood to be entirely opposed to any such arrangement. Mr. RICHMOND, Chairman of the Committee, is in town to-day, and goes down to New-York to-night, but he is understood to refuse peremptorily to call the Committee together to consider any such proposition. Several telegraphic messages have been received here from the West discouraging any such arrangement as injurious to the ticket.

DEAN RICHMOND, Chairman, and PETER CAGGER, Secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee, issue a call for a meeting of the Committee at the St. Nicholas Hotel in New-York for Friday next, Sept. 14, at 12 o'clock noon. It is well understood here that a large majority repudiate the proposition said to have been made by the Breckinridge Committee, and agreed to by BENJ. WOOD. The majority of the Committee deny that the Wood Sub-Committee had any authority to agree to any arrangement, but were simply to consider and discuss propositions and report them to the State Committee.

HOW THE PROPOSITION WAS RECEIVED.

It is at length settled that there is to be no fusion between the Breckinridge and Douglas parties in this State. The letter of BENJAMIN WOOD, Chairman of the Douglas Conference Committee, accepting, at the eleventh hour, the terms proposed by the Breckinridge Committee, has been repudiated by DEAN RICHMOND, Chairman of the General Committee; and all further negotiations may be considered closed. Mr. WOOD forwarded the terms of the bargain, as agreed upon, together with the favorable recommendation, as stipulated, to DEAN RICHMOND, at Albany, on Sunday, with a request that an answer might be returned as soon as possible. At 6 o'clock last evening his communication was returned to him unanswered. It was a subject of general remark among the leading Douglas men of the City yesterday, that Mr. WOOD had no power to contract an alliance on such terms as were proposed by the Breckinridge Committee, and the manner in which his bargain has been ratified, or rather repudiated, would seem to imply that this was the case. The approaching barbecue at Jones' Wood has raised the spirits of the Douglas men wonderfully, and they now declare that they don't want the assistance of the Breckinridge men, but can elect their ticket in this State in spite of both them and the Republicans.

At a meeting of the Douglas Campaign Club, held at GIBSON'S building, in Broadway, last evening, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we recognize STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS and HERSCHEL V. JOHNSON as the only regular nominees of the Democracy for the offices of President and Vice-President of the United States; that all other persons who choose to be candidates are bolters against the organization of the party, guided solely by selfish considerations, and are unworthy the countenance and support of the Democracy of the country.

Resolved, That the regular organization of the party in this State, having adopted an electoral ticket in accordance with the usages of the party, and standing upon the platform adopted at Charleston and Baltimore, and under the resolutions of the Convention which nominated them, pledged to the support of DOUGLAS and JOHNSON, we call upon all conservative and Union men to rally to its support; that in this contest the question is Union or disunion, and therefore all men of conservative principles can march under our banner to victory and triumph; that we reaffirm the following resolution unanimously adopted by the mass meeting of the National Convention held in the Park on the 26th of September, 1858:

Resolved, That while we earnestly desire the cordial and permanent union of the Democratic Party, we are admonished, as well by reason as by dearly purchased experience, that no union can be either successful or tolerable but such as is founded on concurrence in principles; that all attempts to establish or maintain a union between those of conflicting sentiments by whatever name it may be dignified, is but a coalition hostile to harmonious action, demoralizing in all its tendencies, destructive of the interests of the Democratic Party, and inevitably tending to defeat, disruption and disgrace.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing resolutions, duly attested by the officers of the Campaign Club, be forwarded to DEAN RICHMOND, Esq., Chairman of the State Central Committee, as the expression of the Douglas Campaign Club of the City of New-York.

Mr. THOMAS W. FIELD made a speech in support of the resolutions, in which he said that the campaign had just began to open, that the Douglas party of this State did not need the aid of the Breckinridge party to defeat their opponents, and that if they did there could be no such thing as union with disunionists. His remarks were enthusically applauded.

Senator Douglas at Allentown, Penn.

EASTON, Penn., Monday, Sept. 10.

The reception of Judge DOUGLAS at Allentown, this morning, was very enthusiastic. On his arrival at the dépot, he was received by the Keystone Club, and a large number of citizens. He spoke a few minutes, but his remarks were cut short by the starting of the train for Easton. A large delegation accompanied him here. His arrival was announced by the firing of cannon. He was escorted from South Easton by a procession of citizens. At 3 o'clock a meeting was organized in the public square. Mr. DOUGLAS' appearance called forth tremendous cheers, and the pressure to see the "Little Giant" was great. Owing to hoarseness, he did not speak long.

His speech was an abbreviation of his Reading effort, and was mainly directed against the secessionists. At 5½ o'clock he was escorted to the New-York train, and left amid enthusiastic cheers. At Somerville, Plainfield, Elizabeth, &c., large crowds had assembled and called for DOUGLAS, who responded by a few words of thanks.

Hon. William Kelly Accepts the Nomination for Governor.

RHINEBECK, N. Y., Wednesday, Sept. 5, 1860.

To Messrs. Wm. Chamberlain, John Tracey and David Moulton, Committee:

GENTLEMEN—I have received your communication informing me of my unanimous nomination for the office of Governor of the State of New-York, by the Democratic Convention assembled at Syracuse on the 15th August.

In reply I beg to say that I accept the nomination with a high sense of the honor, and with profound gratitude to the great party which has conferred upon me so distinguished a mark of its favor and confidence.

As this nomination was unsought by me, so it is now accepted only upon a belief, based on assurances which have been warmly made to me, that the use of my name will tend to unite "the great body of the Democracy and the opponents of sectionalism in this State."

The success of a sectional party fraught with consequences so full of evil to our country, should be dreaded by every lover of the Union, and its defeat regarded as the paramount issue in the present contest. To secure such defeat will require the earnest and combined efforts of all who are truly national in their feelings.

Regard for individuals must not prevent or embarrass coöperation—and while accepting the nomination thus tendered me, I desire to hold it subject to any action which may be deemed expedient on the part of those by whom it was conferred, to secure the triumph of the conservative national sentiment of the State.

Accept my thanks for the courteous and flattering manner in which you have notified me of the nomination.

Yours very respectfully,

WILLIAM KELLY.

FROM UTAH.

The Mails—Indian Troubles—The Late Eclipse—An Address from Brigham on Family Discipline.

From Our Own Correspondent.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, Friday, Aug. 17, 1860.

Our mails from the East and the West are improving. The Eastern mail, due last Tuesday, arrived a week ago, and the one due next Tuesday was distributed yesterday morning. This quick time is creditable to the mail carriers and very gratifying to the general public.

At Egan cañon, on the 11th, some two hundred Indians appeared at the mail station, demanding powder, lead, and provisions. They were supplied with two sacks of flour, some coffee, and sugar to sweeten it, but no ammunition. The Indians were very demonstrative and boisterous, and generously offered to take care of the animals belonging to the station, forbidding the men to go after them. Luckily, just in the nick of time, Lieut. WEED and twenty-five troops appeared, and straightway bravely attacked the Indians, who, though rather disconcerted, returned the fire, wounding three men, two so seriously as to leave a doubt of their recovery; the third, Corporal MITCHELL, is expected to recover. The Indians retreated, forgetting to look after the stock.

Six or eight Indians, the same day, gave some mowers near Deep Creek a polite notice to quit, but offered no further molestation. An ambush was laid, by four soldiers secreting themselves in a wagon. The next morning the sons of the forest, or more literally here, the sons of the desert, made their appearance again, and were surprised by a musketry fire from the wagon, by which two were wounded. Their swarthy companions then quickly disappeared.

On the morning of the 12th, the men at Shell Creek station were suddenly and unexpectedly saluted by a shower of bullets from an invisible enemy, hurting no one. The whites instantly forted in the station-house. It appears there were two parties of Indians, one of which invested the house, firing incessantly for an hour, but showing no front, and still wounding no one. A mule in the corral was shot, and the remainder of the stock was driven away. About this time, Lieut. WEED and command arrived from Ruby Valley, and attacked the Indians, relieving the mail route men and, it is said, killing seventeen Indians, and wounding several others.

In Shell Creek cañon, three soldiers who accompanied the Express from Round Valley, have the credit of killing four Indians.

The brave conduct of Lieut. WEED and company, certainly is worthy of commendation.

Hon. W. H. HOOPER, Utah delegate to Congress; Apostle GEORGE Q. CANNON, H. P. ELDREDGE, and several others, arrived last Monday from the States. The Captain and the Apostle seemed in rugged, hearty health, both no doubt well pleased that their prayers and pleadings in the Far East had been effectual in staving off the Polygamy bill. MR CANNON, it appears, has had the supervision of the Mormon churches and emigration in the States. These distinguished Mormon officials have been serenaded two or three times since their arrival by their admiring brethren.

Here is a bit of interest to farmers. Mr. THOMAS H. BECK, of Spanish Fork, it is reported, recently cradled twenty acres of heavy wheat in four and a half consecutive days, cutting ten acres the last two days. The Deseret News thinks the men with the reaping machines must get up and walk along, or they will be in the way of Mr. BECK'S scythe.

The New-York papers tell us that the late eclipse of the sun, as seen at that City, occurred true to time. This is satisfactory, but things are done differently a Salt Lake. King Sol hid his face from observers in this city an hour or two before the time appointed by PHELPS, the Utah Almanac-maker, insomuch that many curious people were not ready to take observations till almost too late. This same gifted star-gazer gives notice that he has obtained a new barometer, and "arranged it to his notion," so that he expects to "turn out the weather just as it comes, without any guess-work," for the future. A great genius, that.

BRIGHAM YOUNG has sent out mule teams with 2,500 lbs. of flour and 500 lbs. of bacon, to meet the first hand-cart company of Mormon immigrants. Whatever BRIGHAM may think of the Gentiles, it cannot be denied that he extends a most fatherly care over his hand-cart brethren and sisters who "endure to the end" of that wearisome journey over the Plains."

On Sunday last, in the Bowery, BRIGHAM spurned the charges of "being connected with the Vigilance Committee of California, the tea-trade of China, concocting a plan to bring the U. S. Army to Utah, and of being the cause of all the thefts and murders committed here." He also stoutly affirmed that he "could say honestly that he had never had an intimation of any of the riots and murders until after they had transpired." Come, now, where are his accusers? Here is a good chance for a very pretty quarrel.

It has generally been supposed that polygamic families are not the best models of social virtue and peace. But the veritable prophet BRIGHAM himself takes up the weapons of defence. He gives a piece of his mind and of his family experience. Let those who have talked and written perversely, stand corrected before him. Hear what he says of his own polygamic family: "I have a large family of children, many of them small, and yet I do not think that you ever saw even four children in one family live together with so little contention. Watch them, and their conduct will prove that there is a good spirit influencing them. I never knew one of them to be accidentally hurt, without more sympathy being extended to that one than the whole of them needed. You may ask how I manage to bring about this result. I seldom give a child a cross word; I seldom give a wife a cross word; and I tell my wives never to give a child cause to doubt their word. A child loves the smiles of its mother, but hates her frowns. I tell the mothers not to allow the children to indulge in evils, but at the same time to treat them with mildness. If a child is required to step in a certain direction, and it does not seem willing to do so, gently put it in the desired way, and say, There, my little dear, you must step when I speak to you. Children need directing and teaching what is right in a kind and affectionate manner. The Elders who are going abroad should deal out kindness to those they are sent to watch over, and your smiles will be far better than your cursings could be. A child at five years' old would disobey me much oftener than one at fifteen; do you not think that is a good sign?"

There, now, after that fatherly piece of talk, who can be surprised at BRIGHAM monopolizing the ladies? Who can have any more faith in "twin relics" or polygamy bills?

The other day, BRIGHAM, second son of BRIGHAM, was "accidentally hurt," through his revolver unexpectedly going off and putting a bullet in the calf of his leg. No danger, though—nothing but a flesh-wound.

IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO.

Pronunciamiento in favor of Comonfort—The Defeat of Miramon—Affairs on the Rio Grande.

From the N. O. Picayune, Sept. 5.

Intelligence of the highest authority, and brought by the last steamer from the Rio Grande, has been placed in our hand, to the effect that a general pronunciamiento, in favor of the return of ex-President COMONFORT to authority in Mexico, has been planned and is on the eve of being proclaimed.

This new movement, as we are assured, is not confined to the Northern States of the Republic, where, however, it was first inaugurated, but is coextensive with the Republic. The Governor and highest officials of each and every one of the States adhering to the constitutional cause, are in the secret, and when the signal is given, will all pronounce simultaneously.

We call this movement a new one. It is such, however, only in the sense that it has now been fully matured and brought to a head. For six months, now, it has been well known to all intimately conversant with affairs in Mexico, that the wires were being laid, and that for this purpose Generals DOBLADO, TRACONI, and others visited the city the last Winter, for purposes of personal conference with the Ex-President, and afterwards left for their respective fields of action. More recently, special messengers have passed backward and forward through our city, perfecting the arrangement and communicating with their chief, who was, at last accounts, in New-York.

As said before, Gen. DOBLADO, who has recently won the great victory over MIRAMON at Lagos, is one of the most trusted leaders of the movement, and now that the Ex-President's friends are more that ever masters of the field, it is expected that the pronunciamiento will be made at once.

The next arrivals from Mexico, then, may bring us news of another and decided overturn in that distracted country; and should it result in the return of Ex-President COMONFORT, we are sure every Mexican who has an interest in the country, will have reason to rejoice. The Ex-President is known for the moderation of his opinions, and has been tried, and found true to them; while, at the same time, the new movement is one of conciliation, in which the moderate of all parties could join. Anything, however, would be better than the present state of civil war, bloodshed and social anarchy.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

NEW-ORLEANS, Monday, Sept. 10.

The steamer Teviot has arrived at Havana, with Vera Cruz dates of the 3d inst., $4,700,000 in specie.

MIRAMON was at the City of Mexico, concentrating his forces.

The Liberals were rapidly advancing on the capital.

The Juarez Government had declared the bark Maria Concepcion a legal prize.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

BENEFIT OF THE MUSCULAR MCDONALD.—The attraction inherent in the name of HEENAN, posted on dead walls, with the announcement that the Champion will give a sparring exhibition, has by no means departed yet. Next in magnitude to the anxiety to see the Prince of Wales, just now, is the curiosity to gaze at the Prince of Whalers. At the City Assembly Rooms, last night, for the benefit of MCDONALD, HEENAN'S trainer, there was a grand muscular set-to. The Benicia Boy, AARON JONES, PRICE, WOODS, "Dublin MIKE," young DAYTON, CUSICK and MCDONALD, took part in the exercises, and an overflowing assemblage of all sorts of people witnessed and applauded. MCDONALD, at the close, made a brief speech, thanking his friends for their substantial aid and comfort, and promising to help any American who should come to England to fight. [Great applause.] The exhibition ended with the speech. Long after the audience had departed crowds stood around the entrance to the building awaiting the exit of the chief of the fighting men; he, however, after patting AARON JONES on the cheek a few times with the boxing-gloves, had departed early in the evening.

THE FOURTH WARD MISSION.—On the 5th of last December this "Home for Little Wanderers" was opened, under the superintendence of the Rev. W. C. VANMETER. Since that time over 680 children have been received. The daily average is about 175. They are from 16 different nations. The friends of the Mission did not anticipate such a demand for laborers, food, clothes and money; but these wants have been met most promptly and generously. On last Saturday, about 1,500 garments, 400 to 500 pairs of buckskin gloves and mittens, and a lot of apples, potatoes, beans and pork, and $124 in cash, were received from the friends in Johnstown, Kingsboro and Gloversville. Mr. VANMETER starts West in a few days, with his twenty-fifth company of needy children, and then returns to seek among farmers and produce dealers the hundreds of bushels of apples, potatoes, beans and other kinds of food for his "family" during the Winter.

THAT KENTUCKY OX.—Broadway was enlivened yesterday by a demonstrative Douglas procession, consisting of two large wagons, drawn by four horses each. The first contained a band which discoursed "music." This wagon bore on its sides, in glaring capitals, the inscription "Grand Douglas Barbecue at Jones' Woods, Wednesday, Sept. 12. The other wagon held the Kentucky ox, gaily decorated with flags, which ox will be slaughtered and roasted whole on that auspicious day, for the benefit of the "unterrified." It is due to the ox to say that he attracted far the largest share of public attention, and bore his honors with commendable meekness.

BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS.—At the meeting of the Board yesterday, an order issued at the previous meeting, directing the transfer of Sergeant HOLMES from the Twelfth Precinct, was countermanded, and the Sergeant will remain at his present post. Similar action was taken with reference to Sergeant HIGGINS, of the Thirteenth. Patrolman EWEN, of the Nineteenth Precinct, tendered his resignation, to take effect on Oct. 1.

THE INSURANCE FRAUDS.—At the request of the prosecuting counsel, Justice CONNOLLY yesterday further postponed the hearing in the case of the parties charged with attempting to defraud several of the Marine Insurance Companies, to the 2d day of next month. At that time the counsel will be prepared with additional complaints against the accused.

Murder in Clarke-street.

A FIREMAN STABBED TO THE HEART—ARREST OF THE SUPPOSED PERPETRATOR.

A shocking occurrence transpired shortly before 12 o'clock, last night, in Clarke-street, near Dominick, resulting in the instantaneous death of RICHARD GRAY, a young fireman, attached to Engine Company No. 29. The circumstances of the tragedy had not been fully ascertained up to the time that our reporter left the Eighth Ward Station-house, where the body of deceased had been removed, but from the facts he succeeded in obtaining, the murderer is probably one of three men whose arrest had been effected. The name of the suspected party is CHARLES MCALDHATTON, a painter, scarce 20 years of age, who lives in the rear of No. 25 Clark-street, to which access is had through an alley-way. He stated that while passing through this passage to the street, at about 11½ o'clock, he came in contact with a man, whom he could not distinguish in the darkness. Inquiring who it was, he was threatened with a beating, when he made his way into the street, followed by the man whom he had addressed and another person whom at first he had not perceived. These instantly fell upon and knocked him down, after which they kicked and beat him. Escaping from his assailants, MCALDHALTON ran down to the corner of Dominick and Varick streets, where he met officer VAN BUREN to whom he related the circumstances. The officer ran into Clarke-street for the purpose of arresting the parties, and on reaching the place, he found the man GRAY lying dead upon the sidewalk, opposite No. 26, with the blood streaming from a wound in his back, which had probably penetrated his heart. A crowd of people were standing around the body, and one Mrs. GAVIN, keeper of a grocery-store at the number alluded to, stated that she had seen a number of young men participating in a fight at the opposite side of the street. One of them, whom she identified as the prisoner, MCALDHATTON, ran into her store, as she was looking at the disputants from the sidewalk, and immediately went back to the combattants and again darted into the store. Soon she heard the cry that a man was stabbed, and on going into her store she discovered the large knife used for cutting meat lying on the table, and its blade dripping with blood. As no other person than MCALDHATTON had been there, the inference is that he had used the weapon to inflict the mortal wound. The officer thereupon detained MCALDHTTON. After the deceased had been taken to the Station-house Capt. HELME and Sergt. MOUNT started in pursuit of the parties said to have been engaged in the affray, and arrested THOS. SLAVIN, who was with the deceased, and BARNARD MCALDHATTON, the brother of the prisoner.

These parties were all locked up to await the result of the Coroner's inquisition. In searching for the prisoners the Police found a drunken man asleep in the alley-way where the disturbance originated. Upon this fact a supposition is based that the persons disturbed by young MCALDHATTON, were thieves in the act of relieving the drunkard of his money, and angry at the interruption, they beat him and originated the fatal affray.

The Craven and Tappen Investigation.

The hour of 2 o'clock yesterday was fixed for the meeting of the Committee appointed by the Board of Aldermen to investigate the charges preferred by the Mayor, against A. W. CRAVEN, Chief-Engineer, and THOS. B. TAPPEN, Vice-President of the Croton Board. Alderman STARR only was present, Messrs. GENET and BOOLE being engaged elsewhere, and in answer to requests of Messrs. CRAVEN and TAPPEN to proceed, he declined, declaring that under existing circumstances he felt a delicacy in proceeding, without at least one of his colleagues being present. Mr. CRAVEN reminded him that on the 10th of August he had notified the Committee of his readiness to proceed with the investigation, and he hoped there would be no further postponement, a hope in which Mr. TAPPEN joined. Mr. STARR, however, decided to adjourn until to-day at 1 P. M., promising to sit thereafter daily until the matter was disposed of, and further promising to go on to-day, even if none of his colleagues were present.

The following letter from the Mayor was then read:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW YORK, Sept., 10th, 1860.

H. W. GENET, ESQ., CHAIRMAN &C.—Dear Sir: I am in receipt of a note requesting my attendance, at a meeting of the Committee appointed by the President of the Board of Aldermen in July last, to investigate the sufficiency of the causes alleged by me, for the removal of Messrs. CRAVEN and TAPPEN, of the Croton Aqueduct Department.

I respectfully decline attending the meetings of this Committee, and shall not directly or indrectly participate in its proceedings.

The grounds upon which I asked the consent of the Aldermen to the removal of these officers will be found in my communication to the Board, dated July 13, and I refer your Committee to that document as fully sustaining, by official data, every allegation preferred against them.

As an independent Department of the City Government, I have discharged the duty imposed upon me by the Charter in this matter, and now leave the Aldermen to discharge theirs without interference on my part.

Very respectfully, &c., FERNANDO WOOD.

Mr. CRAVEN asked if the Committee had not the power to subpœna the Mayor and compel his attendance, as he was desirous of seeing his accuser face to face during the investigation.

Mr. STARR presumed the Committee had such power, and if necessary it would, doubtless, be exercised.

The Committee was then adjourned until this day at 1 P. M., when the charges and specifications (heretofore published) will be formally read, and statements will be presented by Messrs. CRAVEN and TAPPEN.

The Fourth-avenue Water-pipes Once More.

LETTER FROM THE MAYOR.

We published on Friday the letter addressed to the Mayor by the Croton Board, on the subject of the new main water-pipes between the receiving and distributing reservoirs. The Mayor's reply was received yesterday, as follows:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, Sept. 10, 1860.

Thos. B. Tappen, Acting President Croton Board:

SIR: In reply to your communication addressed to the Mayor, asking if he "would feel authorized to countersign the warrants drawn for the payment of the proposed work on the large main water-pipe on Fourth-avenue without contract," I am directed to say that the Mayor will not feel authorized to refuse his signature to any warrant legally drawn by the Comptroller, for the payment of public work, which has been done in pursuance of law and equity.

Very respectfully,

J. B. AULD, Clerk.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Common Council—Ferry and Water Rights.

The Board of Aldermen, after a recess of six weeks, reassembled last evening.

A petition was presented asking to have a nuisance removed at the foot of North Sixth-street, which was referred to the Health Committee, as was a similar petition from residents of the Eighth Ward. A petition, with resolution, to have Clove Road repaired, at an expense not to exceed $325, was adopted by unanimous consent.

A communication was received from Acting Mayor KALBFLEISCH, which reads as follows:

"GENTLEMEN: I return you, without my approval, the resolution adopted by your honorable body on the 30th ult., authorizing and directing the Law Committee, or a majority of them, to take such steps as they may deem necessary to prosecute the suit now pending between the people of this State and the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York and Robert T. Haws, Comptroller, to its final determination, at a cost not to exceed the moneys now in the Treasury for the purpose, for the following reasons:

The Common Council have not the power to institute or to be a party to a suit, except for the purpose of protecting their own property and interests, and also for the purpose of protecting their corporate privileges and franchises. This doctrine was established by the Supreme Court of this State in the case of Halsted against The Mayor, &c., of New-York, as reported in the 5th of Barbour. The suit alluded to in the resolution is not of the character of that embraced within the limits of the corporate powers as thus defined by the Supreme Court, and therefore the Common Council, not possessing the legal power to act in their corporate capacity, cannot delegate such power to a committee of their body.

Aside from this, the city charter in title 3, sec. 18, provides for the appointment of an attorney and counsel, and makes it his duty and confers on him the management, charge and control of all the law business of the corporation, and of all law business in which the city shall be interested. The power and mode of conducting all legal proceedings in behalf of the city is thus clearly defined by the charter, and cannot therefore be legally performed by a Committee of the Board, or an attorney employed by them, but the business must be in the charge of, and conducted under the control of the attorney and counsel of the city.

Other objections to the policy of the proceedings under the resolution in its present shape, might be urged with great force, were it necessary. The legal disability of the Common Council to its enactment is, however, in my opinion, sufficient for the purpose of withholding my approval. The communication was filed and ordered published.

The Commissioner of Repairs and Supplies was directed to advertise for proposals for the erection of a bell-tower at the rear of the Fourth Precinct Station-house. A resolution was adopted directing that the bell-tower at the City Hall be connected with the Fire Telegraph in the Inspector of Police's office. The Board adjourned for one week.

BRECKINRIDGE DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.—This Convention met in East New-York yesterday, and made the following nominations: For Sheriff: JOHN MCNAMEE, ex-Alderman of the Second Ward. For Superintendents of the Poor: First District, JOHN DELANY; Second District, CASPAR URBAN. For Coroners: City District, WILLIAM E. MURPHY; County District, WYNANT E. BENNETT. Justice of Sessions: JNO. A. EMMONS. Union resolutions were adopted, and the Convention adjourned.

MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.—This library was reopened yesterday. During the recess a new ladies' room has been fitted up, and other improvements made, at a cost of $500. 1,500 new books have been added to the library, making in all 15,000. 98 newspapers are on file, and there are 1,500 members, 200 of whom are ladies.

NEW-JERSEY.

Riot at North Bergen—Several Persons Injured.

Three young men named DAVID SWAIN, FREDERICK H. TURNER and JOHN FAULKNER, were taken before Justice MARTIN, of Hudson City, on Saturday afternoon, charged with feloniously assaulting and beating Mary Thompson, (colored,) Louis Bocke, Francis Witt and Julia Miller, with their fists, and also firing guns at the above named persons.

It appears that the accused parties were in the vicinity of Seacaucus fishing and hunting, and in passing Mrs. THOMPSON'S (the colored woman's) house, stopped in and called for something to drink. Mrs. T. replied rather abruptly that she had nothing for them to drink, and that had they desired it they could have procured a drink at the lager bier saloon they had just passed. Upon this, it is alleged that one of the party told Mrs. THOMPSON "that she need not be so saucy about it," and then struck her one or more blows in the face. Upon this the children ran out and cried murder, when Mr. WITT, who was passing in a wagon, went into the house and was also assaulted. The children in the meantime alarmed some of the neighbors, seven or eight of whom pursued the young men into a field where a fierce fight ensued, during which, it is said, the guns were discharged once or twice. The inhabitants succeeded in taking the guns from the young men, with which they clubbed them until they were overpowered, and then bound and conveyed them to jail.

FAULKNER received a severe bruise across his forehead with a gun; a bad bruise on the shoulder, and a stab on the right arm, the blade of a knife penetrating an inch and a half deep. SWAIN received a severe bruise on his head with a gun. TURNER was somewhat bruised, but not severely. Several of the other party were more or less injured during the melée. THOMAS THOMPSON, the husband of the colored woman, made an affidavit that his wife had received serious injuries. Justice MARTIN held SWAIN and TURNER in $1,000 bonds each, and FAULKNER in $500, for their appearance at the October term of the Court. These young men yesterday took preliminary steps towards causing the arrest of the other party.

FELONIOUS AND PERHAPS FATAL ASSAULT.—Yesterday afternoon, Justice MARTIN, of Hudson City, issued a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. MARY KELLY, charged with committing a felonious assault upon PETER CONNOR. CONNOR made an affidavit that on Sunday afternoon, while at the house of accused, she struck him with some weapon, inflicting a dangerous wound over his left eye, and a second blow on his head which knocked him insensible. The injured man is confined to his bed, and is seriously, if not dangerously, injured. Mrs. KELLY was subsequently arrested, and committed to jail.

A DANGEROUS MISSILE.—On Saturday afternoon, while some laborers were engaged digging in a sand-bank near the Long Dock, a patent rocket, with a heavy iron head, descended with great force, and was buried in the sand within three feet of them. It is supposed that they are constructed for the purpose of carrying a line from wrecked vessels to the shore, and that parties were experimenting with them.

OUT-OF-DOOR SPORTS.

Sixth Annual Regatta of the Empire City Regatta Club.

This nautical event took place yesterday at Conrad's Yorkville Park, in presence of several thousand spectators; the distance for the races being twice round the course for a five-mile race.

The first race was for 17 feet working boats, two pair of sculls, for which four boats entered—the H. Genet, Maggie, H. Fish and Alpha; and was won by the Alpha in 48 minutes 3 seconds, being 50 yards ahead of the Maggie; H. Fish third. Prizes, champion flag, $25, $10 and $3.

SECOND RACE.—Six-oared lap-streak boats, for amateur oarsmen only, for which the Eagle, of New-York—which was nowhere—Gulick, manned by members of Gulick Hose Company No. 11, in Christopher-street, and the What Is It? contended. A pretty good race brought home the Gulick in 37 minutes 7 seconds; What Is It? second. First prize, champion flag and silver pitcher; second prize, silk ensign.

THIRD RACE.—Fishing boats—prizes, $20, $10, $5—was contested by four boats, the race being between the John C. Heenan and Joseph Brown. After a very close race, during which the Heenan led the Brown for four miles, the latter came in the winner in 48 minutes 30 seconds; Heenan half minute behind.

FOURTH RACE.—Four-oared boats, no restrictions—First prize, $100; second prize, $25, for which the Geo. W. Shaw, of Poughkeepsie, Hop Up, of Greenpoint, and Geo. J. Brown, of New-York, contended. The Hop Up crew delayed the race twenty minutes by their endeavors to secure an unfair advantage at the start, and were left nowhere at the end of the race, which was won by the Geo. J. Brown, after a most exciting race, and the shortest time on record, in 30 minutes 44¾ seconds, and only beating the Poughkeepsie boat by two lengths.

FIFTH RACE.—The last race was for champion sculls; no restrictions; first prize $50 and champion flag; second prize $20.

This race was a very exciting one between the Mary Bell Roberts, rowed by P. Lynch, and the Young Stranger, rowed by Thomas Burns, and the Thomas Jefferson, rowed by Thos. Hart. It was won in handsome style by Lynch, in the Roberts, in 40 minutes 13 seconds; Burns second.

The prizes will be presented at the head-quarters of the Empire Club, on next Monday evening, by Judge Sherman Brownell.
